Tshombe, Adoula Begin Talks with Friendly Gestures

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe and Congolese Premier Cyrille Adoula opened their long-awaited negotiations to end the secession of Katanga today after warming the icy political atmosphere with friendly embraces and reminiscing.

The two political enemies got down to business in a conference room of the hospital of the U. N.'s Kitona military base, near the mouth of the Congo River. In se-ret, conversations they hoped to resolve the explosive issues separating Tshombe's wealthy province from the impoverished rest of the Congo.

Adoula and Tshombe met Tuesday to make preliminary arrangements. It was their first meeting in months. They astonished U. N. and American diplomats as they sat together on a couch for 20 minutes, laughing, swapping stories and slapping each other on the leg.

In Elisabethville, the Katanga capital, there was a new flareup of fighting Tuesday. The United Nations said sniping by civilians and mercenaries had forced its troops to occupy several installations of the big Belgian mining company, the Union Miniere de Haut Katanga. Three U. N. Ethiopian soldiers were reported wounded.

With U. N. forces in nominal control of Elisabethville after two weeks of battling, Tshombe's white-led Katanga troops, Acting U. N. Secretary-General U. Thant had ordered his soldiers to hold their fire for the duration of the talks between Tshombe and Adoula. He said they would shoot back if fired on.

Tshombe and Adoula arrived separately Tuesday at the U. N. base.

Adoula said he hoped the talks would end by tonight, but this seemed likely only if they broke down.

When last quoted, Adoula was adamant that Tshombe must end his secession and submit to the central government's authority. The Katanga president was equally insistent that his province, by far the Congo's wealthiest because of rich mineral deposits, must get a large degree of autonomy.

U. N. Undersecretary Ralph Bunche, on hand to help with the talks if asked, threw a cordon of U. N. Nigerian troops around the base and barred newsmen so the Congolese politicians would not be able to sound off to the world.

This duplicated the U. N. tactic last summer when it arranged for the Congolese Parliament to meet in complete isolation at Lovanium University outside Leopoldville. After 10 days of seclusion the legislators agreed on a central government headed by Adoula.

Diplomats in close touch with events at Kitona were unwilling to predict what the talks will produce.

Tshombe confided to associates that what he is most eager for is a cease-fire between his battered forces and the United Nations.

But Adoula has insisted that there be no halt in the military initiative until a political solution for ending the Katanga secession is assured.

Temperatures Remain Low In Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Zero weather hit Midwest states again today and it was freezing in a narrow belt southward into the flood-stricken sections of Mississippi and the Texas Gulf Coast. Skies cleared in most sections of the severe cold belt covering the Dakotas, Nebraska, Minnesota and Iowa after Tuesday's snow and freezing rain.

There was wet weather, snow, rain and freezing drizzle in the Northeast and rain and snow in the far Northwest. Fair weather prevailed across the southern tier of states from the Carolinas and Georgia to Southern California and from the northern Plains southward through Texas.

The mercury dropped far below zero again today, the last full day of the autumn season, in the Dakotas, Minnesota and Iowa.

Unemployment Claims Are Down for Week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — New claims for unemployment compensation in Ohio for the week ended Dec. 16 totaled 18,679—down from the 19,412 reported the previous week. Continuing claims of those unemployed one week or more increased from 94,985 to 97,821.

The average number of new claims filed weekly in December last year was 30,604, and continuing claims on file averaged 171,745.

Indians Tighten Position in Goa

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indian forces tied up their hold on Portuguese Goa today behind an iron curtain. Newsmen were banned from the tiny enclave seized in a 36-hour blitzkrieg.

The Defense Ministry announced that the remaining points of resistance in Goa had collapsed but kept dozens of reporters and photographers waiting outside of the biggest enclave at the Indian command post town of Belgaum.

The smaller enclaves of Damão and Diu, north of Bombay, fell earlier before the lightning attack launched early Sunday.

DiSalle Out Of Race for Time Being

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Despite a plea by a committee seeking to draft him, Gov. Michael V. DiSalle still is out—at least for the time being—of the race for the governorship in the next election.

DiSalle told newsmen Tuesday that rather than seek reelection he would prefer to see a potential Democratic winner who endorsed his programs make the race next year.

He added that he knew some who fitted the description but declined to name them. DiSalle also refused to say whether he would seek another four-year term if no such candidate appeared before the Feb. 7 filing deadline.

Earlier a dozen draft - DiSalle sponsors, headed by Port Clinton publisher Robert W. Reider, called on the governor to urge him to reconsider his decision not to run for another term.

"I will give it very, very serious thought and let you know," DiSalle told the group. "Meanwhile, whatever you do from now on would not contribute to my reconsideration," he added.

In response to a letter from Democratic State Chairman William L. Coleman, who also urged the governor to reconsider, DiSalle said:

"I am taking into consideration the developments of the past two months. This is the best that I can do at the moment. I assure you of a definite reply as soon as possible."

Delinquent Claims Exceed $9 Million

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The state auditor's office reported today that various agencies of the state government are trying to collect more than $9 million in delinquent claims existing at the end of November.

Unpaid accounts totaling $9,245,467 have been certified to the attorney general's office for collection. They represent an increase of $396,118 or 4.4 per cent since last March 1 and of $1,162,907 or 29.2 per cent since March 1, 1960. Sales tax assessments amounting to $5.6 per cent of the total delinquencies.

Council Approves Higher Pay for Most City Workers

Pay raises for most city employees, discussed for almost a year and under official consideration since August, were approved last night by unanimous votes in the final session for the current City Council.

Topping the list were across-the-board increases for both the fire and police departments. Health department and municipal court personnel, water and sewerage department employees and a parking meter maintenance employee also are to benefit from wage boosts averaging approximately five per cent per year.

Council acted under suspension of the three-reading rule by unanimous agreement to pass the pay raise measures before the end of the year. All ordinances are to take effect Jan. 1.

New police salaries will put Chief Robert Temple above the $5,000 per year mark at a wage of $425 each month. Sergeants will receive $365 a month during a three-month probationary period after joining the force or being promoted and $370 per month through the first two years. After two years sergeants will make $380 a month and $385 after three years. After four years their salary will be $390 a month with $395 being the wage after five years.

PATROLMEN will receive $330 per month during the 90-day probationary period and $340 through the first year. A patrolman's salary is increased to $350 after a year and the scale of five dollar-per-year raises goes to a maximum of $365 after four years' service. Overtime scales for hours worked in excess of the regular 48-hour week were also advanced by a years-of-service formula. There are three sergeants and eight patrolmen in addition to the chief now in service on the city force.

Raises for the fire chief, two lieutenants and six firemen were also approved as an emergency measure. Chief Palmer Wise is to receive $375 per month. Lieutenants will be paid $350 a month with firemen receiving $305 during the probationary period and $315 through the rest of their first year. After one year firemen will be given $335 each month. Overtime pay hikes were also included.

U.N. Condemns Portuguese; Pushes To Wind Up Session

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Weary U. N. delegates pushed to wind up the first part of the General Assembly session tonight after condemning Portugal for refusing to give the U. N. information on its overseas territories.

It was the second U. N. decision against Portugal within 24 hours. A Soviet veto Monday night blocked Security Council approval of a resolution calling on India to pull back its invasion of the three small Portuguese colonies on the west coast of India. The Indian army completed its conquest Tuesday.

India led the campaign to condemn Portugal for refusing to furnish information on non-self-governing territories required by the U. N. charter. The vote was 90-3 with Portugal, South Africa and Spain voting no and Bolivia and France abstaining. The United States voted for the resolution after an unsuccessful attempt to soften the language of the resolution.

The resolution authorized creation of a seven-man committee to conduct an investigation of conditions in the Portuguese territories and called on member states "to deny to Portugal any support and assistance which may be used by it for the suppression of people of its non-self-governing territories."

The chief targets of the latter provision were the United States, Britain and other members of the North Atlantic Alliance from whom Portugal obtains military supplies as a member of NATO.

The steering committee called for adjournment by midnight until Jan. 15, but the assembly was expected to sit past the deadline in order to clear a number of items from its agenda.

The 104-nation budgetary committee assured assembly approval of a $200-million, 25-year bond issue to save the world body from bankruptcy. The committee recommended assembly approval of the bond issue by a vote of 45-11 with 21 abstentions. The Soviet bloc objected that the plan was illegal.

The proposal initiated by Acting Secretary-General U. Thant had strong backing from the United States, which pledged that President Kennedy would ask Congress for authority to buy a substantial share of the bonds.

The United Nations' grave financial situation results largely from the cost of the Korean War.

Harsha announced aid for TV schools. Representative William H. Harsha Jr., sixth congressional district, announced today that $30,527 in federal assistance had been "allowed and certified for the Teays Valley School District."

Harsha indicated that payments would be made immediately.

The federal aid is granted to the school district on a basis of children attending TV schools whose parents are employed by the federal government.

The reason for the huge allotment in the district is due to the many children whose parents are employed at Lockbourne Air Force Base or members of the USAF stationed at Lockbourne.

LEOPOLDVILLE—Chief antagonists President Moise Tshombe of Katanga and Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula, in a political dispute that led the U. N. Command to seize secessionist Elisabethville, launched negotiations at Kitona, a U. N. base. Though the two were genial at their first encounter Tuesday, diplomats were uncertain of the outcome.

UNITED NATIONS—General Assembly delegates rushed toward a holiday adjournment tonight after slapping Portugal 90-3 for refusing to give information on its overseas territories. The United States was among Portugal's allies voting for the condemnation. South Africa and Spain lined up with Portugal against it. The General Assembly will reconvene Jan. 15.

Current Fallout Exposure Said within Health Limits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Radiation exposure to humans from all nuclear tests since 1945—including the Soviet Union's recent bursts—will remain within acceptable health limits, the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission says.

The AEC Tuesday, in the most detailed account yet on fallout from nuclear tests, reported:

The fission or fallout production yield—not the explosive force—of the Soviet Union's recent test series was 25 megatons and raised to 50 megatons the fission yield of all Soviet tests. This was compared with 35 megatons for American and British tests combined.

The amount of long-lived fallout products—strontium 90 and cesium 137—which eventually may be deposited on the United States from the 1961 Soviet tests would be "equal to or a little more" than that from American and British tests.

The amount of such long-lived fallout products which may be deposited on the United States from all Soviet tests, including the 1961 series, would be twice that from all past American and British tests.

Association Lauded For Excellent Service

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Association of Secondary School Principals today came to the support of the Ohio High School Athletic Association, now under fire in court proceedings.

Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy asked the Ohio Supreme Court Tuesday to end the athletic association's control over sports among its 1,500 public school members.

He sought a high court order that would require the association officers to show why they should not be ousted from control over interscholastic events in the state-wide organization. That action stemmed from recent OHSAA suspension of Canton McKinley High School.

Last week the supreme court refused to bar Stark County Common Pleas Court from acting to lift the football suspension against the school. The OHSAA had sought a temporary writ of prohibition. Action on permanent writs is pending.

Support of the athletic association came in a statement issued today by Charles L. Fox of Springfield, secretary of the Ohio Association of Secondary School Principals. Said Fox:

"The Ohio High School Athletic Association, through its commissioner and its board of control, should be congratulated for their 40 years of excellent service to secondary school athletics in the state of Ohio."

"The executive committee of the Ohio Association of Secondary School Principals pledges its unqualified support to the commissioner and the board of control of the Ohio High School Athletic Association."

Fox said letters are going to all members of his association verifying the executive committee's support of the OHSAA.

Planned Meet With Macmillan Still Slated

Talks May Be Shifted To Palm Beach in View of Sudden Stroke

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy's ailing father, hospitalized with a stroke that caused partial paralysis, was somewhat improved this morning. And there definitely will be a meeting between the President and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain Thursday.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger told reporters, however, that there is a possibility the conference may be shifted from Bermuda to Palm Beach.

He said Macmillan, who arrived in Bermuda today, has been in touch with the chief executive and places himself at the President's disposal. A decision on the site of the conference will be reached late today on the basis of a report at that time from physicians attending 73-year-old Joseph P. Kennedy, one-time ambassador to Britain.

One doctor said the patient has "a slight paralysis of the right side," but he said the elder Kennedy was better than when he entered St. Mary's Hospital yesterday and better than he was last night.

President Kennedy and his wife, Jacqueline, arrived at the hospital at 10:30 a.m. and went quickly to a third floor suite where the President's father is confined in an air-conditioned room.

This was their third visit to the hospital since the elder Kennedy was stricken.

Announcement that the Kennedy-Macmillan conference will go on came just before the President left the oceanfront mansion in Palm Beach where he is staying to drive to the hospital several miles away in West Palm Beach.

The elder Kennedy was reported able to recognize his youngest son, Edward, in his hospital room this morning, and also his young niece, Ann Gargan. Both had spent the night at St. Mary's Hospital where Kennedy was rushed by ambulance Tuesday afternoon after he was stricken while playing golf.

Salinger, talking to reporters at 9 a. m., said only that "the ambassador spent a good night. He is somewhat improved."

Doctors said Tuesday night that it would be 24 to 48 hours before they know more about the elder Kennedy's chances.

Dr. William T. Foley, a New York specialist on blood vessel obstruction, arrived at the hospital shortly before 9 a.m. to examine Kennedy a second time. He had examined him the first time shortly after flying from New York Tuesday night.

Members of the family, including the President and his wife, gathered at the hospital. They prayed in its small white chapel.

Four doctors were attending the elder Kennedy.

The doctors earlier had decided that Kennedy's condition was not one which could be relieved by an operation. The location of the blood clot—inside the cranial area—was such that it could not be

Admitted 'Goof' Is Corrected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy's public relations man has reimbursed the state for an admitted "goof" in using state stationery and funds to distribute a political letter.

John Depke said he repaid some $13.50 to the state treasury for postage, paper and envelopes used in sending out McElroy's "open letter" challenging Gov. Michael V. DiSalle to disavow a "draft DiSalle" for governor move.

The letter was sent to newspapers and radio and television stations.

Depke admitted he "goofed" in using the state supplies. McElroy is an announced candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Tshombe, Adoula Begin Talks with Friendly Gestures

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Katanga President Moise Tshombe and Congolese Premier Cyrille Adoula opened their long-awaited negotiations to end the secession of Katanga today after warming the icy political atmosphere with friendly embraces and reminiscing.

Once Around Roundtown

KENNETH Dewey, local barber, reminiscing a Christmas vacation of a few years ago, recalled that temperatures dropped to the low 30s and a light frost had killed most of the "beauty the family went to see."

"The motel where we stayed wasn't equipped for the cold weather, except for a small electric heater, which added to the comforts of home that we didn't have," Dewey said.

The barber continued to say that most restaurants there were closed on Christmas Day. "When we finally found one that was open the only dishes available were fried oysters and fresh strawberry shortcake."

Dewey and his family will spend their holiday at home this year—as they have since the unforgettable Christmas vacation in Florida.

THE 30 RESIDENT children of the Pickaway County Children's Home received several gifts from the Columbus Auto Club.

Among them were two portable radios and a stereophonic phonograph complete with about a dozen records.

DEADLINE for entering the Christmas Lighting Contest, sponsored by the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce, is Saturday.

Chamber officials stated that judging will be between Christmas Day and New Year's.

Classes of the annual competition are: the best over-all decoration; best religious theme; best decorated door, doorway or lamp post and best new or novel decoration.

APPROXIMATELY 2,900 students of Circleville schools began their holiday vacation from studies today.

Students were dismissed following individual classrooms parties for elementary children and carol programs for junior high and high school students.

Classes will resume after New Year's Day.

SOMETIMES hospitality just doesn't pay. Consider the plight of Kenneth Craig, principal of Williamsport-Atlanta High School.

Mr. Craig ventured into the wintry night yesterday to pick up members of the United High School basketball team when the Ross Countians' bus broke down several miles from Williamsport.

The United squad arrived at the Deers' gymnasium on time, thanks to the helping hand, and promptly trounced their hosts, 88-74.

LAST NIGHT was filled with nostalgia in City Council chambers.

Mayor Ben H. Gordon, signing his last papers as Circleville's chief executive, was asked what he planned to do with his Tuesday evenings now.

His reply: "Stay home with my wife and relax!"

Retiring Councilman David Crawford bid farewell to his law-making brethren with a jocular promise to "Maybe I'll return one of these days." And Richard Penn, who assumes the Mayor's office next year, didn't look a bit unhappy as he vacated the council president's chair for the last time.

The smaller enclaves of Damão and Diu, north of Bombay, fell earlier before the lightning attack launched early Sunday.

Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon, en route to the United Nations in New York, reportedly said prior to his departure that the military government had to organize and clear roads of mines and that it would be some days before journalists would be allowed to enter.

The news ban left the outside world dependent on official Indian reports of the capitulation of Portuguese rule in the city.

Menon told newsmen during a stopover in Cairo that he was returning to New York to place India's case clearly before the United Nations.

Diplomats at U.N. headquarters in New York were puzzled by Menon's haste. The General Assembly planned to recess today until mid-January, and the Soviet Union vetoed a Western cease-fire resolution in the Security Council Tuesday as India was completing its conquest. No further arraignment of India in the council or the assembly was expected.

The Communist bloc and the Asian-African nations acclaimed the action by Prime Minister Nehru's forces. The United States, Britain, and other Western nations strongly condemned it.

Menon said India had been forced to liberate the three enclaves because 14 years of negotiation with Portugal had proved futile.

Nehru told newsmen that the ease with which India took over the three enclaves and the lack of casualties—the government said it lost eight dead and that Portuguese casualties were "small"—proved the "correctness of the Indian assessment of the situation."

"The colonial administration had cracked up and the people wanted and welcomed India," Nehru said. He said U.N. critics of India were "obviously ignorant of the acts now as well as in the last dozen years or more."

He added that he knew some who fitted the description but declined to name them. DiSalle also refused to say whether he would seek another four-year term if no such candidate appeared before the Feb. 7 filing deadline.

Harsha Announces Aid for TV Schools

Representative William H. Harsha Jr., sixth congressional district, announced today that $30,527 in federal assistance had been "allowed and certified for the Teays Valley School District."

Harsha indicated that payment would be made immediately.

The federal aid is granted to the school district on a basis of children attending TV schools whose parents are employed by the federal government.

The reason for the huge allotment in the district is due to the many children whose parents are employed at Lockbourne Air Force Base or members of the USAF stationed at Lockbourne.

School Heads Back OHSAA

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Association of Secondary School Principals today came to the support of the Ohio High School Athletic Association, now under fire in court proceedings.

Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy asked the Ohio Supreme Court Tuesday to end the athletic association's control over sports among its 1,500 public school members.

He sought a high court order that would require the association officers to show why they should not be ousted from control over interscholastic events in the state-wide organization. That action stemmed from recent OHSAA suspension of Canton McKinley High School.

Last week the supreme court refused to bar Stark County Common Pleas Court from acting to lift the football suspension against the school. The OHSAA had sought a temporary writ of prohibition. Action on permanent writs is pending.

Support of the athletic association came in a statement issued today by Charles L. Fox of Springfield, secretary of the Ohio Association of Secondary School Principals. Said Fox:

"The Ohio High School Athletic Association, through its commissioner and its board of control, should be congratulated for their 40 years of excellent service to secondary school athletics in the state of Ohio."

"The executive committee of the Ohio Association of Secondary School Principals pledges its unqualified support to the commissioner and the board of control of the Ohio High School Athletic Association."

Fox said letters are going to all members of his association verifying the executive committee's support of the OHSAA.

The OHSAA is a non-profit organization that controls interscholastic sports in Ohio. It has a long history of cooperation with the state of Ohio.

Current Fallout Exposure Said within Health Limits

WASHINGTON (AP)—Radiation exposure to humans from all nuclear tests since 1945—including the Soviet Union's recent bursts—will remain within acceptable health limits, the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission says.

The AEC Tuesday, in the most detailed account yet on fallout from nuclear tests, reported:

The fission or fallout production yield—not the explosive force—of the Soviet Union's recent test series was 25 megatons and raised to 50 megatons the fission yield of all Soviet tests. This was compared with 35 megatons for American and British tests combined.

The amount of long-lived fallout products—strontium 90 and cesium 137—which eventually may be deposited on the United States from the 1961 Soviet tests would be "equal to or a little more" than that from American and British tests.

The amount of such long-lived fallout products which may be deposited on the United States from all Soviet tests, including the 1961 series, would be twice that from all past American and British tests.

The AEC study, given by Dr. Gordon M. Dunning, deputy director of the AEC's Division of Operational Safety, also reported on how this accumulation of fallout from all past tests would affect children.

A "rough estimate" indicates that the radiation dose over 70 years to the bones of children born in 1962 may be only one-fiftieth of the dose listed by the Federal Radiation Council as an acceptable guide for "normal peacetime operations." About 40 per cent of this dose would be expected to come from the 1961 Soviet tests.

Radioactive strontium is the fallout product that is feared as a "bone-seeker." If enough were deposited, it could cause bone cancer.

The "whole body exposure" over a period of 30 years for children born in 1962 would be about one-eighth of the permissible exposure for normal peacetime operations. About 60 per cent of this would be from the 1961 Soviet tests.

The commission also said that the estimated one-year dose to the thyroid glands of children resulting from radioactive iodine—also a potential cause of cancer—from the recent Soviet tests is within the council's limit.

year and the scale of five dollar-per-year raises goes to a maximum of $365 after four years' service. Overtime scales for hours worked in excess of the regular 48-hour week were also advanced by a years-of-service formula. There are three sergeants and eight patrolmen in addition to the chief now in service on the city force.

Raises for the fire chief, two lieutenants and six firemen were also approved as an emergency measure. Chief Palmer Wise is to receive $375 per month. Planned Meet With Macmillan Still Slated

Talks May Be Shifted To Palm Beach in View of Sudden Stroke

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy's ailing father, hospitalized with a stroke that caused partial paralysis, was somewhat improved this morning. And there definitely will be a meeting between the President and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain Thursday.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger told reporters, however, that there is a possibility the conference may be shifted from Bermuda to Palm Beach.

He said Macmillan, who arrived in Bermuda today, has been in touch with the chief executive and places himself at the President's disposal. A decision on the site of the conference will be reached late today on the basis of a report at that time from physicians attending 73-year-old Joseph P. Kennedy, one-time ambassador to Britain.

One doctor said the patient has "a slight paralysis of the right side," but he said the elder Kennedy was better than when he entered St. Mary's Hospital yesterday and better than he was last night.

President Kennedy and his wife, Jacqueline, arrived at the hospital at 10:30 a.m. and went quickly to a third floor suite where the President's father is confined in an air-conditioned room.

This was their third visit to the hospital since the elder Kennedy was stricken.

Announcement that the Kennedy-Macmillan conference will go on came just before the President left the oceanfront mansion in Palm Beach where he is staying to drive to the hospital several miles away in West Palm Beach.

The elder Kennedy was reported able to recognize his youngest son, Edward, in his hospital room this morning, and also his young niece, Ann Gargan. Both had spent the night at St. Mary's Hospital where Kennedy was rushed by ambulance Tuesday afternoon after he was stricken while playing golf.

Salinger, talking to reporters at 9 a. m., said only that "the ambassador spent a good night. He is somewhat improved."

Doctors said Tuesday night that it would be 24 to 48 hours before they know more about the elder Kennedy's chances.

Dr. William T. Foley, a New York specialist on blood vessel obstruction, arrived at the hospital shortly before 9 a.m. to examine Kennedy a second time. He had examined him the first time shortly after flying from New York Tuesday night.

Members of the family, including the President and his wife, gathered at the hospital. They prayed in its small white chapel.

Four doctors were attending the elder Kennedy.

The doctors earlier had decided that Kennedy's condition was not one which could be relieved by an operation. The location of the blood clot—inside the cranial area—was such that it could not be removed.

Admitted 'Goof' Is Corrected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy's public relations man has reimbursed the state for an admitted "goof" in using state stationery and funds to distribute a political letter.

John Depke said he repaid some $13.50 to the state treasury for postage, paper and envelopes used in sending out McElroy's "open letter" challenging Gov. Michael V. DiSalle to disavow a "draft DiSalle" for governor move.

The letter was sent to newspapers and radio and television stations.

Depke admitted he "goofed" in using the state supplies.

McElroy is an announced candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Crew To Shoot Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. helicopter crews flying into South Viet Nam's guerrilla-infested battle zones will shoot back if Communists fire on them, say Pentagon sources.

The United States has sent 40 helicopters and 400 men to fly them to South Viet Nam. They will be used, the sources said, to haul supplies and Vietnamese troops into isolated areas where the soldiers can battle Communist Viet Cong rebels.

Peaceful Settlement Appears Possible in West New Guinea

By K. R. RAMANATH
JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Foreign Minister Subandrio told parliament Tuesday night that Indonesia can't be blamed if it takes West New Guinea by force but that the door is still open to a peaceful settlement with the Dutch rulers of the island territory.

He made clear that Indonesia will accept only a settlement giving it control of the western half of the big island, which the Netherlands retained in 1949 when it granted the rest of the Netherlands East Indies independence.

Meanwhile, said Subandrio, "for us there is no other way but to carry out the people's command" by President Sukarno who ordered total mobilization of the nation Tuesday. Sukarno said he had instructed the armed forces to prepare to seize West New Guinea "at any time from now on."

"The possibility has not yet been entirely closed that this question may be settled peacefully. The door is still open," Subandrio said in a lengthy statement explaining Indonesian policy toward the area it calls West Irian.

He invited the Dutch to "seize this opportunity before it is too late" and asserted that the world could not blame the Sukarno government if it launches military action to prevent the Dutch from carrying out their plan to transform West New Guinea into the state of West Papua which would have the right of ultimate self-determination.

"Let the Dutch not underestimate our strength," the foreign minister declared. "Let the Dutch not consider the hand extended by President Sukarno as weakness of Indonesia but as a final appeal to seek a peaceful way."

Pressure mounted in Holland for direct negotiations and the Dutch government said it was willing to talk under the auspices of the United Nations.

In Washington, ambassadors from both nations indicated to newsmen after separate talks at the State Department that their governments might accept outside help in reaching a solution.

President Kennedy has urged both Indonesia and the Netherlands to seek a peaceful agreement.

500 per year; Civil Defense director to receive $250 a year; Health Commissioner, $1,800; nurse, $4,200; clerk, $3,150; sanitation, $2,600; Municipal Court clerk, $3,789; deputy, $236 per month for first six months, $245 per month thereafter; bailiff, $2,580 per year; parking meter maintenance employee and special policeman, $3,000 per year.

In the Department of Water and Sewage, pay raises granted included a boosted to $8,400 a year for manager Irvin Leist with board of public utilities members receiving $200 per year and the board chairman $300. The department's bookkeeper-cashier is to receive $4,080 and an assistant $2,520.

OTHER division personnel: customer service meter reader, $4,080; distribution foreman, $4,080; distribution maintenance men (two) and two pumping station operators, $3,960; resident pumping station operator, $3,600. The chief sewage division operator will receive $4,740 and three operators, $4,020 each.

Council officials concurred the wage boosts were "long overdue and deserved by the employees." All were signed by Mayor Ben Gordon.

Council also paved the way for acquiring two new police cruisers by authorizing the director of public safety to advertise for bids to replace a 1960 and a 1958 Ford now operated by the department.

Bids are to be on a competitive basis, with the lowest and best determined on the basis of trade-in allowances offered.

In an effort to balance the city's books by the close of 1961, Council also approved numerous requests for routine fund transfers.

Council also moved to obtain easement rights for sewers on seven tracts of land owned by Orin L. and Mabel Bircher and one owned by Frank and Geneva Woodward as well as sewer rights for easements on land owned by Virginia Replegle.

After detailed explanation by Water director Irvin Leist the Council transferred $7,500 to the Waterworks improvement fund to purchase lands and easements in connection with the contemplated waterworks improvement program.

LEIST diagramed land along Island Rd. owned by the Replegle Co., identifying 8.4 acres as an excellent site for a new water plant. A 16-inch water main crosses the property and could be utilized in such a facility, he pointed out. A bid will probably be taken to acquire the land in the next few days.

Peaceful Settlement Appears Possible in West New Guinea

By K. R. RAMANATH JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Foreign Minister Subandrio told parliament Tuesday night that Indonesia can't be blamed if it takes West New Guinea by force but that the door is still open to a peaceful settlement with the Dutch rulers of the island territory.

He made clear that Indonesia will accept only a settlement giving it control of the western half of the big island, which the Netherlands retained in 1919 when it granted the rest of the Netherlands East Indies independence. Meanwhile, said Subandrio, "for us there is no other way but to carry out the people's command" by President Sukarno who ordered total mobilization of the nation Tuesday. Sukarno said he had instructed the armed forces to prepare to seize West New Guinea "at any time from now on."

"The possibility has not yet been entirely closed that this question may be settled peacefully. The door is still open," Subandrio said in a lengthy statement explaining Indonesian policy toward the area it calls West Irian.

He invited the Dutch to "seize this opportunity before it is too late" and asserted that the world could not blame the Sukarno government if it launches military action to prevent the Dutch from carrying out their plan to transform West New Guinea into the state of West Papua which would have the right of ultimate self-determination.

"Let the Dutch not underestimate our strength," the foreign minister declared. "Let the Dutch not consider the hand extended by President Sukarno as weakness of Indonesia but as a final appeal to seek a peaceful way."

Pressure mounted in Holland for direct negotiations and the Dutch government said it was willing to talk under the auspices of the United Nations.

In Washington, ambassadors from both nations indicated to newsmen after separate talks at the State Department that their governments might accept outside help in reaching a solution. President Kennedy has urged both Indonesia and the Netherlands to seek a peaceful agreement.

Acting U.N. Secretary-General U Thant appealed in identical notes to Sukarno and Dutch Prime Minister Jan E. De Quay for both governments to "take no action which could give rise to a threat to peace and security."

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A parking citation with a $5 bill attached arrived at the municipal court traffic fines bureau Tuesday.

"I have parked over my allotted time and never received a ticket. I can remember how grateful I was, too."

"This, in a small way, may make up for it. Merry Christmas to you all."

"(Signed) Donna Tsahkoff."

500 per year; Civil Defense director to receive $250 a year; Health Commissioner, $1,800; nurse, $4,200; clerk, $3,150; sanitation, $2,600; Municipal Court clerk, $3,789; deputy, $236 per month for first six months, $245 per month thereafter; bailiff, $2,580 per year; parking meter maintenance employee and special policeman, $3,000 per year.

In the Department of Water and Sewage, pay raises granted included a boosted to $8,400 a year for manager Irvin Leist with board of public utilities members receiving $200 per year and the board chairman $300. The department's bookkeeper-cashier is to receive $4,080 and an assistant $2,520.

OTHER division personnel: customer service meter reader, $4,080; distribution foreman, $4,080; distribution maintenance men (two) and two pumping station operators, $3,960; resident pumping station operator, $3,600. The chief sewage division operator will receive $4,740 and three operators, $4,020 each.

Council officials concurred the wage boosts were "long overdue and deserved by the employees." All were signed by Mayor Ben Gordon.

Council also paved the way for acquiring two new police cruisers by authorizing the director of public safety to advertise for bids to replace a 1960 and a 1958 Ford now operated by the department.

Bids are to be on a competitive basis, with the lowest and best determined on the basis of trade-in allowances offered.

In an effort to balance the city's books by the close of 1961, Council also approved numerous requests for routine fund-transfers.

Council also moved to obtain easement rights for sewers on seven tracts of land owned by Orin L. and Mabel Bircher and one owned by Frank and Geneva Woodward as well as sewer rights for easements on land owned by Virginia Replogle.

After detailed explanation by Water Director Irvin Leist the Council transferred $7,500 to the Waterworks improvement fund to purchase lands and easements in connection with the contemplated waterworks improvement program.

A Crack Is Evident

The West has long considered itself at a disadvantage because it had to deal with a monolithic communist empire. The East could make policy at one point quickly and without any known dissent. But the West has to grind out its decisions after protracted parleys during which valuable time is lost.

Now it appears that the monolith of the East may be cracked down the middle. The East has reached the crux of quarrel. The Soviet Union and Albania have broken diplomatic relations.

Back of that is the more significant worsening of relations between Moscow and Peiping. Red China has become the champion of Albania and the Soviet Union its denouncer. Since this is open evidence of a break, all previous speculation about the inability of Moscow and Peiping to agree on communist policy begins to look

Red Cannibals

A revealing statement came from the Soviet Union in the wake of the South Pacific search for Michael Rockefeller, son of New York governor. Komsomolskaya Pravda, organ of the communist youth organization, said that it was "an American tragedy" that "half a world has been mobilized" in a futile search for "a millionaire's son who collects shrunken human heads."

"We are not cannibals, we understand the grief of a father, even if one of the humanism require that half a world be

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP)—Among the issues that are likely to stir up a big fuss in the next few weeks and months is a growing split in thinking between labor and management. It's complicated by a decided administration interest in the outcome.

You can see the issue building up in such actions as rising orders for steel as a hedge against a strike next summer.

And you can hear the issue in a flow of pronouncements by management spokesmen, labor leaders, administration officials.

Some of the wordage is along the old lines—wages, costs, prices. But some of the terms they are using are more complex—productivity, automation, hard core of unemployment, inflation and the cost of living, profits and the rate of economic growth, competition with the European Common Market and Japan in world and domestic markets.

That is, some of the battle between labor and management will be along traditional lines: How much pay can we get? How can we hold down costs and maintain or boost profits? How high will prices go?

While deep down, and growing, is a split over more fundamental issues. This is a real difference of opinion as to what is best for the country—or, as Washington would put it, just how much of labor's objectives and management's goals will work to the maximum good of the country.

The turmoil is likely to get pret-

State Orders Transportation For Student

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A Long Island school district was under state orders today to provide transportation for a pupil to a parochial school 10 miles away by ferry and bus or 50 miles away by highway.

The district said the transportation would cost $5,000 and require increased local property tax.

Commissioner of Education James E. Allen Jr. said Greenport Union Free School District No. 10 in Suffolk County should pay reasonable costs of the transportation of Patricia Cooper, 14, from Greenport to Sacred Heart Academy in Sag Harbor.

The Greenport district had turned down a petition by Mrs. Giancetta T. Cooper, mother of Patricia, for transportation costs.

Allen said if the district had insufficient funds, the Board of Education is authorized to raise the money through property taxes. Allen also said that the district had an alternative of providing the girl with room and board at Sag Harbor, if that appeared more feasible.

There are two routes from Greenport to Sag Harbor. Via road around Great Peconic Bay; or via ferry to Shelter Island, across the island by bus, and by ferry from Shelter Island to the shore near Sag Harbor.

Although the road distance is more than 50 miles, the ferry-bus route is less than 10 miles.

State law requires transportation of pupils to public or private schools as far as 10 miles from their homes if, in the case of private schools, there are no nearer schools of the same denomination.

ty loud shortly. Let's try to see what some of the high-sounding issues mean, without attempting to decide which side will win, or should win.

The productivity situation is this: A gain in productivity usually means that new machines or methods permit more goods to be produced with the same amount of man hours. The issue: How much of this gain should go into higher wages, how much into profits, how much into holding down or cutting prices?

Automation involves productivity. It also means sometimes that some workers are no longer needed, that some haven't the skills to handle the new machines. The issue: Should this be corrected by shorter work weeks to spread the remaining work, by retraining laid-off workers, by waiting for general prosperity to provide more jobs elsewhere, as it often has in the past?

The hard core of unemployment is defined as the unskilled worker for whom demand is dwindling. To the ranks are being added younger workers just entering the labor force and older workers whose skills are outdated.

The inflation issue finds labor and management split as to what causes the rising cost of living—steadily rising wage scales, or prices rising enough to keep profits rising, too.

Labor charges that boosting prices unnecessarily to get more profits has caused the demand for higher wages. Management contends that profits aren't rising as fast as they should if industry is to get the funds it needs to expand at anything near the rate of economic growth which the Kennedy administration has set as a goal. The administration says the growth rate must be greater if the economy is to provide, among other things, more jobs needed for a growing labor force.

And even the foreigners are getting into the debate—if only as a warning of what the United States is up against.

The prospering Western European nations and Japan are giving many U.S. companies a hard time selling abroad, or competing here at home with foreign goods.

Management says this is because wage costs here are so high that our prices aren't competitive. Labor says it is management's yen for profits—and high executive salaries—that helps keep prices high.

The administration hopes it can keep the dispute in bounds—stave off more inflation, keep our goods competitive abroad, make the economy grow faster.

The consumer? He just hopes prices don't go much higher.

"Needs salt!"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

JACK BENNY recalls a day in his youth when he was practising on his violin in Waukegan, Ill. A dog stood outside the window howling his head off. Benny's father stuck his head inside the door and implored, "For Pete's sake, Jack, play something that dog doesn't know!"

Back in the Indiana hamlet where he had been raised, Herb Shriner asked the constable, "What's the most exciting thing that's happened around here this season?" "I guess nothing at all," admitted the constable. "Shucks," said Shriner mournfully, "I sure wish I could have gotten in on it!"

"And now my poor husband thinks he's Shakespeare," mourned a long-suffering wife to the family head shrinker. "A harmless delusion," observed the latter. "The heck it is," disputed the wife. "He won't let me bring bacon into the house."

Inside You and Yours

"Can I afford it I'm worried about Junior—not the nickel he swallowed!"

Mom didn't know what nickels and dime pass through the intestines without trouble. You can recover them, if it's worth the effort!

Your child may prefer buttons, jewelry or open safety pins. He may crave certain dishes—smash-eds and broken before swallowing. Glassware may tickle his palate.

X-rays once found an open penknife inside an amateur word-swallower. He hadn't quite learned the trick.

Chicken and fish bones often slip down. A friendly pat on the back of your favorite seamstress with a mouth full of pins and... You gag and choke, but this soon passes—unless a sharp point catches in the esophagus (gullet) lining. Here, any piercing puncture pours life-threatening infection out near the heart.

If doctors can't fish out the object, they simply push it down into the stomach. Almost anything can pass through the stomach and down the intestine, including open pins and sharp spikes. The victim can't even tell when the object passes through.

When it won't, doctors operate. Recently surgeons waited for one last X-ray before cutting into the abdomen—and the operation was canceled. The safety pin was gone!

Intestines can guide any sharp object safely along. Doctors no longer feed peanut butter and cotton sandwiches hoping fibers will wrap themselves around dangerous point. The sharp object usually passed through—but only an operation could remove those large clumps of cotton!

Don't worry if Junior swallows your engagement ring. It's all in the family! Anchor some cheese-cloth under his toilet seat. Intestinal contents can be washed through, but not that diamond!

Time may not fly when Junior swallows your wristwatch, but you can bet it will pass!

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Two 18-year-old Warren motorists, who pleaded guilty to racing their cars 50 miles an hour in a school zone, today were sentenced to stay in a hospital emergency room Friday and Saturday night to witness the admission of traffic accident victims.

The new wrinkle in education of errant drivers was ordered by Municipal Judge James A. Ravella after Richard Austin and Leo Vaughn entered their guilty pleas. The two pleaded innocent to reckless driving charges, however, after conceding their race along East Market Street Monday.

Judge Ravella handed the two these additional penalties: A four-month license suspension, $50 fines and one-year probation. He said Austin and Vaughn will report to Trumbull Memorial Hospital here from 7 to 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday "so that they can see for themselves the amount of personal injury and violence brought by accidents through careless driving."

Fragmentation of Culture

By George Sokolsky

English is the language of the American people, although in some places Spanish is an important secondary prevalent language. It is not to be assumed that all those who settled American territory prior to the Revolution were English-speaking people. Actually, among the earliest settlers were persons who spoke other languages, such as French, Spanish, Portuguese, Dutch, German in various dialects, Swedish, and numerous African languages and dialects. Even 18th Century English was not one dialect of the language; some of the varieties of English are so different that they cannot be understood by other English-speaking people.

Now along comes the City of New York and seeks to have the State Legislature accept any of 27 languages as a measure of literacy for purposes of voting. The evidence for the significance of a language is that a newspaper is published in that language. The City of New York, it is now reported, has 56 daily or weekly newspapers published in a language other than English. The figure used to be much higher but as children go through our schools, they lose the mother-tongue of their parents. They learn some kind of English. For instance, when I was a child, there were five or six daily Yiddish newspapers with sizable circulations. Today only one is important.

The move is, of course, divisive and political. It is the process of catering to the so-called minorities, to frightened and discontented persons who join together on a racial, linguistic or religious basis to protect themselves from the dominant group.

From an American standpoint, the proposal is stupid and baneful. It fragments our people on an irrational basis. From the very beginning of our country it has been a problem to find a basis for intellectual or cultural unity.

We live by a written Constitution which is a product of the development of British history. Those who accepted the Constitution were not necessarily British. Pennsylvania, where the Constitution was actually written, was at that moment inhabited by persons using a number of languages and having varieties of Western European origins.

It was not difficult to establish Anglo-Saxon concepts either for the Articles of Confederation or the Constitution because the Anglo-Saxons were prevalent and the other groups played small roles in Massachusetts or Virginia, which were the two most important colonies at the very beginning of American history and they were definitely and unequivocally Anglo-Saxon. Thomas Jefferson who wrote most of the Declaration of Independence and he, Madison, Hamilton and the others engaged in that task were attached to Anglo-Saxon traditions.

Language plays a significant role in the development of a people; it helps the mind to accept institutions. Prior to the 1880's this country was homogeneous politically and was spiritually stronger than it is today. The need for absorbing immigrants by the million from all parts of the world, associated large numbers of potential citizens and voters to whom Anglo-Saxon traditions were alien and whose cultures were different and varied with this country and its established habits.

The earlier immigrants of a particular group were anxious that people of their kind be assimilated in American life. In this effort, the social settlement and the public schools played a potent role. They entered upon what they then called Americanization programs, most of which were effective and successful, although two counter-movements developed simultaneously, namely, the fight of foreign-language newspapers to encourage nationalism of origin and the development of defense organizations to lessen the abuse of new immigrants.

The trend toward assimilation seemed to be successful until the increased immigration of aliens subsequent to the universal depression of the 1920's. This is particularly significant in relation to the huge immigration of Central American people, particularly Puerto Ricans who have been rejected by both the American Negro and the American white. Such a rejection is not unusual; the Irish and the Jews have experienced a similar exclusion in its most undignified forms.

As the Puerto Ricans were immediate citizens because Puerto Rico is part of the United States, the politicians have catered to their presence and resentment to their presence has been increasing among others. The proposal to have 27 languages to provide evidence of literacy is a manifestation of the development of minority power in New York and a continued fragmentation of our particular culture.

A Crack Is Evident

The West has long considered itself at a disadvantage because it had to deal with a monolithic communist empire. The East could make policy at one point quickly and without any known dissent. But the West has to grind out its decisions after protracted parleys during which valuable time is lost.

Now it appears that the monolith of the East may be cracked down the middle. The East has reached the crux of quarrel. The Soviet Union and Albania have broken diplomatic relations.

Back of that is the more significant worsening of relations between Moscow and Peiping. Red China has become the champion of Albania and the Soviet Union its denouncer. Since this is open evidence of a break, all previous speculation about the inability of Moscow and Peiping to agree on communist policy begins to look quite substantial.

Despite every effort to gloss over the differences, they are now undoubtedly a weakening factor in communist ambitions to infiltrate and take over the world. Whether Western intelligence has a part in actively promoting these differences historians of the future must reveal.

A quarter century ago the Axis powers, with Russia an associate member, seemed to be doing much better as close allies. They were in league to take over Eurasia. Russia and Germany quarreled over a division of the loot, sealing the doom of that unholy alliance.

The widening split between Moscow and Peiping must be the same type of dispute over who gets what. And the West, no longer confronted by a monolith, can view its own policy contentions with somewhat less anxiety.

Red Cannibals

A revealing statement came from the Soviet Union in the wake of the South Pacific search for Michael Rockefeller, son of New York governor. Komsomolskaya Pravda, organ of the communist youth organization, said that it was "an American tragedy" that "half a world has been mobilized" in a futile search for "a millionaire's son who collects shrunken human heads."

"We are not cannibals, we understand the grief of a father, even if one of the humanism require that half a world be mobilized because of a rich loafer?"

Here is the issue put as clearly as possible. In Western humanism the life of one individual is that important, whether he be loafer (as Michael was not), worker, intellectual or whatever. Free men believe in the individual, while adherents of the new Oriental paganism that is communism believe only in the state.

The communist editors of the Soviet newspaper are wrong: they are cannibals. They want to devour a whole civilization, one based on the dignity of man.

Kappa Beta Christmas Meet Enjoyable Affair Tuesday

The Christmas season was brightened for members of the Kappa Beta Class of the First EUB Church Tuesday evening when members met for a festive dinner in the Pickaway Arms.

Following the dinner, Miss Lucille Kirkwood was hostess to the class for a Christmas party and gift exchange held in her home on North Court Street. An additional feature of the occasion was the revealing of mystery sisters.

Miss Kirkwood conducted the devotional period on the topic "The Christmas Story". She gave the narrative and members in turn read passages from the scriptural background. Mrs. Donald Johnson assisted Miss Kirkwood in the account.

"Winds Through the Olive Trees" and "Sisters of Wonder" were given as duets by Mrs. Woodrow Carley and Miss Kirkwood.

The holiday mood became resplendent with group singing of Christmas carols.

Mrs. Johnson, president, presided at the business meeting. The class purchased puzzles, a Nativity Scene and a Christmas tree to be placed in the church nursery. Also members voted to give a substantial cash donation to the Lowery Lane Mission.

Two contact committees were named to serve for the coming year. Miss Phyllis Hawkes will head the first committee which includes Mrs. Carley, Mrs. Earl Crable, Miss Kirkwood, Mrs. Elliott Hawkes and Mrs. Herb Miller. Chairman of the other committee is Mrs. Carl Baker. Serving with her will be Mrs. Tom Weaver, Mrs. Bill Lockard, Miss Delores Mavis, Miss Olive Ward and Miss Mary Ward.

Members drew names of mystery sisters for the coming year. Guests for the yuletide meet were the Rev. and Mrs. O. F. Gibbs.

The next meeting of the class is scheduled for the month of January. Mrs. Donald Johnson will be hostess to the group in her home on 525 E. Franklin St.

Beta Rho Chapter Members Meet for Christmas Party

Members of the Beta Rho Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma held their annual Christmas party recently in the home of Lucille Scott president, 341 Northridge Road.

The Scott home was decorated throughout in keeping with the holiday season for the gathering of the honorary group of working teachers throughout the county who stress the theme "Developing Human Resources".

Lucille Scott presided at a short business meeting. Betsy, John, Michael and Molly Jo Hamerick and Robbie Cotterman sang a selection of Christmas carols which included "Gentle Mary", "I Wish You A Merry Christmas" and "Away in a Manger".

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were given. The group decided to give a Christmas gift consisting of a cash donation to "CARE" for the purchase of a sewing machine for the Philippines.

Roll call was answered with members presenting an "Example of Modern Trends in Christmas Art". This was in keeping with the group's yearly program which is also exemplified on member's greeting cards.

A letter was read from a former member of the group, Winifred Harper, who is teaching in the American Elementary School in Dachau, Germany. Ruth Neff had charge of a Round Robin Letter to Winifred. Each member present wrote a brief resume of personal happenings during the past year.

Marcella Kern presented a report from source material on "Encouraging Initiative in Economic Stability". She chose the topic "Automation Challenges Education". She gave a detailed report on the possibilities in automation by the year 1975, and explained that the world is now entering the age of automation and wide unemployment will be reduced by cutting back work week time. Machines will do work that manpower is not capable of performing.

She also stated that modern science demands that children think creatively.

Urcie Cross reviewed the article "Spirit of St. Louis" from the National Educational Assn. Journal which described the school system in the city of St. Louis. The counseling service has been newly established. The article detailed the anecdotal report of four students enrolled in the St. Louis City Schools. The counseling service is sponsored by the Ford Foundation and the children counseled must have an IQ of at least 80. The main effort of the service is to get children to be interested in higher education.

At the close of the meeting, each guest received a gift from the hostess.

Refreshments were served from a table beautifully decorated in a holiday theme.

Hostesses were Ruth Neff, Gloria Gabriel, Kathleen Bush and Anna Lee Brevard.

Like coffee flavor? Add instant coffee to cream that is to be whipped and sweetened and use as a cake filling. Delicious with both sponge and chocolate cake.

Five Points Church Class Has Yule Meet

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hix, Grove City, were hosts to the Young Friendship Class of the Five Points Methodist Church when members met Saturday evening for their December meeting.

Mrs. Richard Phillips, president, opened the meeting. Mrs. Hix gave devotions with a scripture reading from the second chapter of St. Luke.

Roll call was answered by the members telling what they liked best about Christmas.

Mrs. Phillips extended her thanks to the class members for their help with the Nativity Scene at the church, the recent bake sale and toy party.

The class decided to pay for two squares of shingles for the church. Election of officers was held with the following results: Mrs. Richard Redman, president; Arthur Dick, vice president; Mrs. Richard Everman, secretary; Mrs. Richard Phillips, treasurer and Mrs. Jack Hix, news reporter.

Richard Phillips closed the meeting by reading his original poem entitled "Our Night Before Christmas".

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Season Holiday Spirit With Christmas Candy

By ALICE DENHOFF
Candy-making time is here — one of the traditional delights of the glorious holiday season for so many of us. Nothing says "Christmas" more delightfully than homemade candies, and arranged in a handsome container, the candies make a charming remembrance for guests and friends.

Vanilla Bonbons, jewel-pretty with their pastel colors and decorations of glazed fruits and nuts, make wonderful holiday treats.

Vanilla Bonbons
2 c. sugar
1 c. water
1/4 tsp. salt
3 tsp. light corn syrup
1 1/2 tsp. vanilla extract
2 drops each, red and green vegetable coloring
Red glazed cherries
Pecan and almond halves

Combine first 4 ingredients in a 6 cup saucepan. Stir until sugar is dissolved.

Cover. Boil 3 min.
Remove cover. Cook to 238 degrees F., or until a bit of syrup forms a soft ball when dropped in cold water.

Keep sides washed down with pastry brush dipped in cold water, using an up-and-down motion, never brushing around the pan in a circular motion.

Turn out onto ungreased platter or marble slab.

Cool to 110 degrees F., or until platter can be held comfortably in palm of hand.

Sprinkle pure vanilla extract over top.

Beat until candy turns cloudy. Gather up in a ball and knead with lightly buttered hands until snow white and creamy.

Divide into 3 equal parts. Color with vegetable coloring, one part green, one red and leave the remainder white.

Shape into 1 in. balls.

Top with glazed cherries or nut halves. Or, if desired, surround pieces of nut meats or glazed fruit with fondant.

Sprinkle with chocolate sprinklers or leave plain.

Makes 1 1/2 lbs.

For a nice nibble, remove pits from dried dates. Fill centers with fondant. Dip in colored granulated sugar, decorates or chocolate sprinklers.

For something good and fairly easy to prepare, make a batch of the following coffee caramels.

Coffee Caramels
1/4 c. ground coffee
1/4 c. water
1 c. evaporated milk
1 c. sugar
1 c. light corn syrup
Pinch of salt
1/4 c. butter

Snowmen can live up the summer, too — with the help of a big pile of dense soapsuds. Youngsters simply pat big handfuls of this "snow" all over themselves — or each other. This game both cools and entertains.

You can add a half teaspoon of curry powder to a cup of French dressing. Nice with fruit salad.

Note to new cooks: Sweetbreads are always parboiled to keep them firm.

Miss Hammel, Mr. McCrady Exchange Marriage Vows

Miss Sue Ann Hammel became the bride of Mr. Robert Taylor McCrady in an afternoon ceremony Sunday, Dec. 17 in Trinity Lutheran Church. Pastor Carl G. Zehner officiated at the double ring ceremony at half after 12 o'clock.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hammel, 531 S. Court St. Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. McCrady, 328 E. Mill St., are the parents of the bridegroom.

Traditional wedding music was provided for the occasion by Mrs. Karl Herrman.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a mint-colored wool suit accented with fur trim. A head band of fur completed her ensemble. She carried an all white Bible topped with a single orchid.

As maid of honor, Miss Marilyn Kroner of Sunman, Ind., was the bride's only attendant. Miss Kroner was attired in a dress of navy blue with which she combined a head band of navy blue and matching accessories. She wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. David Hammel, brother of the bride, served as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Pickaway Arms.

After a wedding trip to Virginia,

the couple will reside in Columbus.

The bride, a graduate of Circleville High School, is now a student at the Capital University School of Nursing in Columbus.

Resler Home Scene of Yule Party

Members of the Newcomer's Club held their annual Christmas party Thursday night with a carry-in supper at the home of Mrs. Charles Resler, Knollwood Village.

Punch and canapés were served preceding the dinner. Mrs. William Ebersole presided at the punch bowl.

The dinner tables were decorated with white candles, greens and pine cones. The evening ended with a gift exchange and a social hour.

A short business meeting was held. Reports were given by Mrs. Jack Atkins and Mrs. Lawrence Wherthey. Mrs. Atkins announced the club will sponsor a Christmas party Wednesday afternoon for the class of Exceptional (Rearded) children at St. Joseph's School. Mrs. Wherthey stated the proceeds of the card party and fashion show were used to buy gifts for the children of the Pickaway County Children's Home.

Mrs. John Byers was chairman of the Christmas party. Assisting her were Mrs. William Bills, Mrs. William Ebersole, Mrs. Melvin Evans, Mrs. Richard Hockman, Mrs. A. D. Page, Mrs. James Sutton and Mrs. Lawrence Wherthey.

The next meeting will be Jan. 10th in the home of Mrs. Richard Hackman. Rev. William Huber will be guest speaker.

Snowmen can live up the summer, too — with the help of a big pile of dense soapuds. Youngsters simply pat big handfuls of this "snow" all over themselves — or each other. This game both cools and entertains.

You can add a half teaspoon of curry powder to a cup of French dressing. Nice with fruit salad.

Note to new cooks: Sweetbreads are always parboiled to keep them firm.

Beta Rho Chapter Members Meet for Christmas Party

Members of the Beta Rho Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma held their annual Christmas party recently in the home of Lucille Scott president, 341 Northridge Road.

The Scott home was decorated

throughout in keeping with the holiday season for the gathering of the honorary group of working teachers throughout the county who stress the theme "Developing Human Resources".

Lucille Scott presided at a short business meeting. Betsy, John, Michael and Molly Jo Hamerick and Robbie Cotterman sang a selection of Christmas carols which included "Gentle Mary", "I Wish You A Merry Christmas" and "Away in a Manger".

The secretary's and treasurer's reports were given. The group decided to give a Christmas gift consisting of a cash donation to "CARE" for the purchase of a sewing machine for the Philippines.

Roll call was answered with members presenting an "Example of Modern Trends in Christmas Art". This was in keeping with the group's yearly program which is also exemplified on member's greeting cards.

A letter was read from a former member of the group, Winifred Harper, who is teaching in the American Elementary School in Dachau, Germany. Ruth Neff had charge of a Round Robin Letter to Winifred. Each member present wrote a brief resume of personal happenings during the past year.

Marcella Kern presented a report from source material on "Encouraging Initiative in Economic Stability". She chose the topic "Automation Challenges Education". She gave a detailed report on the possibilities in automation by the year 1975, and explained that the world is now entering the age of automation and wide unemployment will be reduced by cutting back work week time. Machines will do work that manpower is not capable of performing.

She also stated that modern science demands that children think creatively.

Urcie Cross reviewed the article "Spirit of St. Louis" from the National Educational Assn. Journal which described the school system in the city of St. Louis. The counseling service has been newly established. The article detailed the anecdotal report of four students enrolled in the St. Louis City Schools. The counseling service is sponsored by the Ford Foundation and the children counseled must have an IQ of at least 80. The main effort of the service is to get children to be interested in higher education.

At the close of the meeting, each guest received a gift from the hostess.

Refreshments were served from a table beautifully decorated in a holiday theme. Hostesses were Ruth Neff, Gloria Gabriel, Kathleen Bush and Anna Lee Brevard.

Like coffee flavor? Add instant coffee to cream that is to be whipped and sweetened and use as a cake filling. Delicious with both sponge and chocolate cake.

Season Holiday Spirit With Christmas Candy

By ALICE DENHOFF

Candy-making time is here — one of the traditional delights of the glorious holiday season for so many of us. Nothing says "Christmas" more delightfully than home-made candies, and arranged in a handsome container, the candies make a charming remembrance for guests and friends.

Vanilla Bonbons, jewel - pretty with their pastel colors and decorations of glazed fruits and nuts, make wonderful holiday treats.

Vanilla Bonbons
2 c. sugar
1 c. water
¼ tsp. salt
¾ tsp. light corn syrup
1½ tsp. vanilla extract
2 drops each, red and green vegetable coloring
Red glazed cherries
Pecan and almond halves

Combine first 4 ingredients in a 6 cup saucepan. Stir until sugar is dissolved.

Cover. Boil 3 min. Remove cover. Cook to 238 degrees F., or until a bit of syrup forms a soft ball when dropped in cold water.

Keep sides washed down with pastry brush dipped in cold water, using an up-and-down motion, never brushing around the pan in a circular motion.

Turn out onto ungreased platter or marble slab.

Cool to 110 degrees F., or until platter can be held comfortably in palm of hand.

Sprinkle pure vanilla extract over top.

Beat until candy turns cloudy. Gather up in a ball and knead with lightly buttered hands until snow white and creamy.

Divide into 3 equal parts, color with vegetable coloring, one part green, one red and leave the remainder white.

Shape into 1 in. balls.

Top with glazed cherries or nut halves. Or, if desired, surround pieces of nut meats or glazed fruit with fondant.

Sprinkle with chocolate sprinklers or leave plain.

Makes 1½ lbs.

For a nice nibble, remove pits from dried dates. Fill centers with fondant. Dip in colored granulated sugar, decorates or chocolate sprinklers.

For something good and fairly easy to prepare, make a batch of the following coffee caramels.

Coffee Caramels
¾ c. ground coffee
¾ c. water
1 c. evaporated milk
1 c. sugar
1 c. light corn syrup
Pinch of salt
¼ c. butter

Miss Hammel, Mr. McCrady Exchange Marriage Vows

Miss Sue Ann Hammel became the bride of Mr. Robert Taylor McCrady in an afternoon ceremony Sunday, Dec. 17 in Trinity Lutheran Church. Pastor Carl G. Zehner officiated at the double ring ceremony at half after 12 o'clock.

Seasonal Christmas decorations added beauty to enhance the motif in the church. Arrangements of white chrysanthemums and carnations flanked by two seven branch candelabra and two three branch candelabra were used on the altar.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hammel, 531 S. Court St. Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. McCrady, 328 E. Mill St., are the parents of the bridegroom.

Traditional wedding music was provided for the occasion by Mrs. Karl Herrman.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a mint-colored wool suit accented with fur trim. A head band of fur completed her ensemble. She carried an all white Bible topped with a single orchid.

As maid of honor, Miss Marilyn Kroner of Sunman, Ind., was the bride's only attendant. Miss Kroner was attired in a dress of navy blue with which she combined a head band of navy blue and matching accessories. She wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. David Hammel, brother of the bride, served as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Pickaway Arms.

After a wedding trip to Virginia,

the couple will reside in Columbus.

The bride, a graduate of Circleville High School, is now a student at the Capital University School of Nursing in Columbus.

The bridegroom, also a graduate of Circleville High School, is associated with the State Treasurer's Office. He will enter Ohio State University, Columbus, in January.

Recalled Servicemen Getting 'Why Me' Answers from Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is distributing to all National Guardsmen and Reservists who have been called up a pamphlet entitled "Why Me?"

Amounting to a "white paper" to meet criticism and complaints about the service summons when no hot war exists, the 11-page pamphlet sums up the reasons and policies.

It quotes from speeches and statements by President Kennedy and Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr., and discusses the questions its says are most frequently asked by men called to active service last October.

As a preamble, the "Why Me?" pamphlet outlines the doctrine behind the decision.

"Increasingly hostile behavior by the Sino-Soviet bloc made it necessary to build up U.S. military strength immediately to demonstrate determination to resist aggression; Soviet threats to liquidate Allied rights in Berlin called for urgent development of combat-ready forces for dispatch to Europe, if required; increasing tension elsewhere required development of strategic Reserve forces to meet possible trouble at widely separated points."

Then the pamphlet gets down to questions and answers.

Here are some:

Has the Army been expanded just to meet the Berlin crisis?

"No. Although world attention has been centered on Berlin for months, there are other major trouble spots—and many more potential trouble spots."

What has the call-up accomplished?

"It has stimulated action by many of our allies to strengthen their military forces; it has demonstrated to Communist leaders the determination to fight, if necessary; it has helped Berlin to stand intact; it has "increased markedly the ability of the United States to deter the Sino-Soviet bloc from using force to expand its territory and influence."

Instead of calling up Army National Guardsmen and Reservists, why not expand the active Army by bigger draft calls?

The Army is being expanded by larger draft calls but draftees are untrained men and it will be months before they are trained, and once they are trained as individuals still more time will be needed to weld them into fighting units. "Raw recruits are no answer to Communist aggression today. Trained reservists and National Guardsmen are."

Why were men called who were not assigned to units?

Very few Guard and Reserve units were at full strength. When these units were called to duty, they had to be filled out with trained individuals as soon as possible. "The only immediately available source of trained personnel was the Ready Reserve reinforcement pool."

Why were men called as fillers who had enlisted for only six months active duty under the Reserve Forces Act?

"Fair play. After serving six months these men are obligated for an additional period of from 3 to 5½ years in the Ready Reserve." Highest priority was given to Reservists with the least previous active duty so long as they met requirements for specific skills and grades.

Why were men called as fillers who had two or more years previous active duty?

The six-months Reserve Forces

Act men were not qualified to fill many of the positions in active units. Therefore, men with two or more years previous duty had to be called.

Some men in paid drill status who had only six months active duty have not been called—why?

They are members of Reserve component units; the current law prohibits the ordering to active duty as individuals those persons who are members of Reserve component units.

If the Reserve units were needed, why were they not sent overseas?

About 40 per cent of the Army already is overseas. Many of the recalled units have replaced regular Army units sent to Europe to reinforce the 7th Army. "The critical need was to establish a powerful strategic reserve in the United States, capable of immediate deployment overseas when and as needed."

What is the basis for exemption?

Guardsmen or Reservists pursuing graduate studies on a full-time basis "in a field of primary interest to the Army" may be deferred; a member whose active duty would result in "extreme personal or community hardship" also may be deferred.

"No individual can qualify for deferment on a personal or community hardship basis unless he can establish that his call to active duty will create problems very much more severe than those which will be created by the call to active duty of any other National Guardsmen or Reservists."

Why have recent draft calls been smaller than at the outset of the buildup?

The first quotas were large in order to bring the regular Army to its higher authorized strength rapidly. "The requirements of this expansion are approaching fulfillment" and enlistment and re-enlistment rates have increased.

SANTA and the FLYING SHOE

by Lucrece Beale

SYNOPSIS: The Ipswitch has been identified. The monster is really a giant shoe. It returns to Polydora and the Minister of Science, now the new king, drives it away with a wave of his hand. But clinging to the departing Ipswitch are Santa and King Ferdinand, disguised as shoe shine boys.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN AN OCEAN VOYAGE

"Hang on!" cried Santa as he struggled to wrap the shoe lace around his waist.

The King was too busy to reply. He had lost hold of his shoe string and was inching forward on his stomach trying to find a safe spot. At last his hands found a lace hole and he climbed into it and clung to the edge.

Up, up the Ipswitch went and then down, faster than falling rain, to land with a crash in some poor farmer's peach orchard, smashing the trees and shattering a nearby barn. Then up again and down, thud, thud, thud.

Santa swung around on the end of the lace like a ball on the end of a rubber band while the King bounced so hard in the lace hole he twice bounced right out of it and once went sliding all the way to the Ipswitch's toe before he caught himself on a scuffed piece of leather and dragged himself back to safety.

"Suppose it never stops!" he thought miserably. He had a sudden awful vision of Santa and himself bouncing around on the Ipswitch's shoe for the rest of time. The more he thought about it the surer he was that this was just what was going to happen. He poked his head far out of the hole to explore the possibility of jumping off the next time they touched ground. What he saw caused his heart to miss a beat.

"Look! Look!" Santa saw the King's frightened face and turned and looked where he pointed. He, too, gasped and shivered with fright for just ahead and below them stretched an endless ocean and it was clear as could be that the next step the Ipswitch made would land them all plumb into the bottomless sea.

"Shall we jump off?" shouted the King.

Santa shook his head. "We must solve the mystery!" he shouted back.

The King hardly cared about the mystery any longer. He wished he were reading someone else's mystery in his own comfortable bed back home—even if it wasn't a king's bed anymore.

But it was all too late because now the foot was descending to the sea. The King shut his eyes and held his breath and waited for the cold water to cover him. SMACK! The shoe struck the sea and the waves splashed over the King but though he waited and waited he didn't drown! He opened his eyes and let out his breath. The shoe, like an ocean going ship, was riding the waves with the greatest of ease and, as the King stared in disbelief, a sail suddenly sprang from inside the shoe, caught the breeze and sent the Ipswitch zooming over the sea.

Shelter Plan Under Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohioans in 33 counties soon will be advised where they should hole up in event of nuclear attack.

Adj. Gen. Loren G. Windom has announced the start of a survey of shelter accommodations suitable for 50 or more persons in public and private buildings. He reported Tuesday the Army Engineers have contracted with six Ohio architect-engineering firms to make the study, first of three phases of a statewide survey.

Feasible sites later are to be stocked with supplies. It is part of a national effort to provide protection for 50 million U.S. citizens.

Due to be completed by next March, the initial Ohio survey will cover the communities of Dayton, Oakwood, Kettering and Cheviot and these counties:

Miami, Williams, Defiance, Paulding, Van Wert, Fulton, Putnam, Henry, Allen, Licking, Fairfield, Muskingum, Perry, Hocking, Guernsey, Noble, Monroe, Harrison, Belmont, Tuscarawas, Carroll, Athens, Meigs, Morgan, Gallia, Washington, Lawrence, Jackson, Vinton, Brown, Adams, Clermont and Hamilton (excluding city of Cincinnati and municipalities therein).

The population of San Salvador has passed the 2,500,000 mark. This means an average of more than 300 persons per square mile.

The next step would land them in a bottomless sea.

Santa pulled himself hand over hand up the shoe lace and climbed to the King's side. "How about that! We get an ocean voyage as a reward for our troubles!"

But the King pointed ahead. "Not a long voyage, though. It appears we are headed there."

Straight ahead a small island grew inexplicably out of the sea. It was a lonely barren place of huge grey rocks and stony cliffs. "Ah," said Santa. "I have a feeling the master of that island holds the key to the whole mystery."

And when he sees us? asked the King.

"Let us not think of that until we get there," said Santa cheerfully. (Tomorrow: The Scaraboos)

Registration Deadline for Commies Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The members of the U.S. Communist party—more than 10,000 by FBI estimates—have until midnight tonight to register as agents of a foreign power.

They are expected to follow their officers' lead and ignore this third—and last—deadline. If they do, the Justice Department could try to send them to jail.

When the party itself ignored a Nov. 20 deadline to register with the attorney general and the leaders did the same Nov. 30, the Justice Department got an indictment against the party.

If convicted, the party could be fined $10,000 for each day of non-registration. Officers and members are subject to the same penalty, plus five years in prison for each day of violation.

The registrations were required by the Internal Security Act of 1950, upheld by the Supreme Court earlier this year after a 10-year legal battle.

Party officials had declared well in advance that they would not comply with the registration provisions of the act. They also require the disclosure of party printing press locations, financial contributions and expenses.

FFA Fines Own Boss after Flying 'Goof'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Agency has fined its chief $50 for a piloting goof.

FAA Administrator N. E. Halaby said today he has been served notice of the fine for brushing wing tips with an airliner at Washington National Airport Nov. 9.

Halaby told a news conference he thoroughly approves of the disciplinary action taken against him by the enforcement division of the agency he heads. He added, though, that this is the only accident he has ever had in 28 years of flying.

The accident occurred when the plane Halaby was piloting moved ahead of the United Air Lines plane to take off.

Halaby said the report of the wing-tip brushing went up through channels.

It was prepared by an FAA employee at the airport. "He is still there and will remain there," Halaby assured the reporters, smiling.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

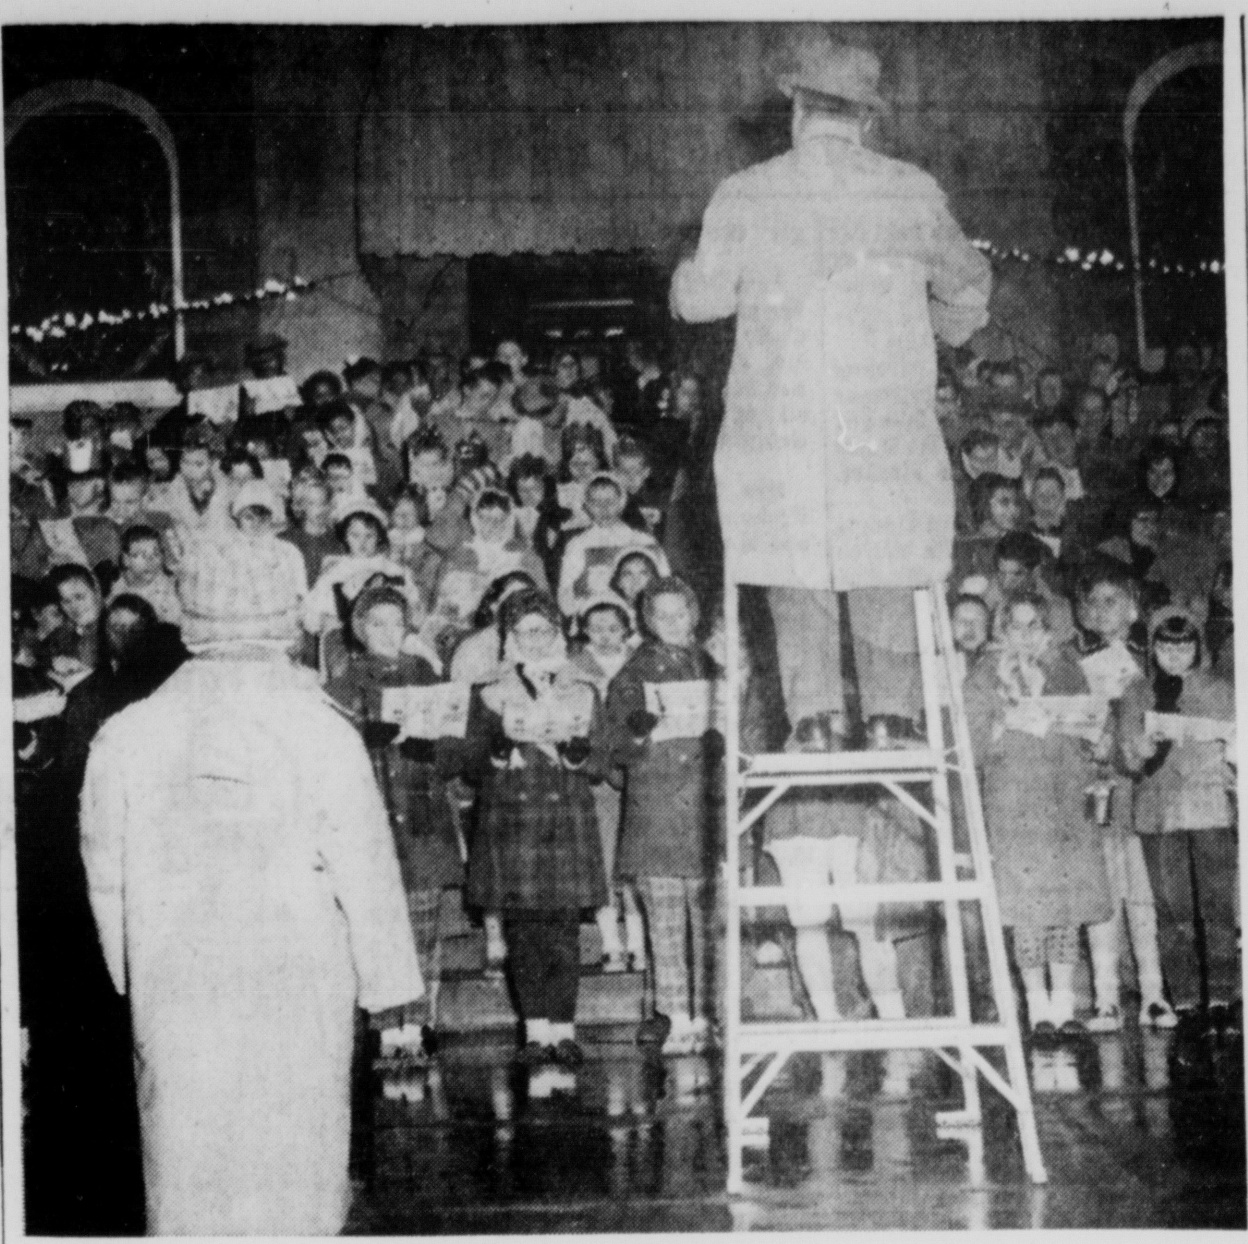

Light precipitation was falling from overcast skies over Ohio this morning, and it was a little colder than Tuesday morning.

Scattered areas of snow flurries and light, freezing drizzle covered the northern half of the state. Toledo reported the only snow accumulation with about three inches.

Temperatures early today ranged from 30 at Toledo to 34 at Belleaire and Marietta.

Today will be cloudy and cold with occasional snow flurries. Some clearing is expected over Southern Ohio tonight, and Thursday will be generally fair.

Temperatures will be lower tonight, dropping into the upper teens and low 20s by Thursday morning.

"SILENT NIGHT, HOLY NIGHT" — Ever popular Christmas carols could be heard within a two-block area yesterday evening as Circleville churches' youth groups congregated on the courthouse steps to form a huge unisonous choral group. Although rain threatened to cancel the first annual "Carol Sing", over 200 youths turned out for the event. (Photo by Ron Warren)

History Much In Common

ETAIR AIR BASE, France (AP) —When he was recalled to full-time Air Force service, Maj. George C. Berens, a veteran mailman from Bolivar (Tuscarawas County), was serving as state secretary of the Ohio Rural Letter Carriers Association.

After Maj. Berens arrived in France with part of the activated Ohio Air National Guard Wing, his wife wrote saying she had read in a trade publication that a Duane I. Kanaga, state secretary of the Arizona Rural Letter Carriers Association, also had been re-called to active service.

A few days later Maj. Berens looked up from his desk to find a technical sergeant reporting in—Duane I. Kanaga of Chandler, Ariz.

The two state association secretaries compared notes and found a few other similarities. Both have three children, both wives are presidents of the ladies' auxiliaries of their state rural letter carrier associations, both wives are substituting on the mail routes and both men have seen World War II military service.

Berens is a native of Massillon, U.S. 50.

Motorist Killed In Ross County

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — A car traveling at an excessive rate of speed left a Ross County highway Tuesday night, the highway patrol reported. The driver was killed and two passengers were injured.

Killed was Richard Lee Knisely, 29, of Bainbridge. The injured—Daryl Elliot, 23, and Clayde J. Everhart, 29, both of Bainbridge—were taken to Chillicothe Hospital.

The patrol placed the accident four miles east of Bainbridge on U.S. 50.

Chances Slim For Finding Tiny Monkey

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —An Atlas missile took a tiny Rhesus monkey named Scatback on a 600-mile ride into space but chances appeared slim today that the little fellow will be recovered.

A ship bucked heavy seas in the south Atlantic Ocean searching for the capsule containing Scatback.

Officials expressed hope the capsule bearing the four-pound animal would be found, but admitted the odds were not good. It may have sunk in the rough water, with waves running seven to nine feet high.

Scatback, with a radio transmitter and biomedical sensors imbedded under the skin, was in the capsule attached to the side of an Atlas which blazed away from the Cape at 10:32 Tuesday night.

The Atlas worked with perfection, unleashing the capsule on a 15,000 m.p.h. ballistic course six minutes after launching.

Less than 30 minutes later, the capsule, a 6-foot-long cylinder, plummeted into the intended impact zone more than 6,000 miles down range. A flotation bag was to give it buoyancy.

The package carried a radio beacon and flashing lights to help searchers zero in on it.

Two planes and the range vessel Sword Knot comprised the recovery fleet. The aircraft had to abandon the hunt after about three hours because they were running low on fuel.

Worker Electrocuted

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Gerald Dunn, 38, of Rt. 1, Utica, was electrocuted Tuesday while working on power lines in nearby Bellville.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The world's statesmen, by Ralph Waldo Emerson's reasoning, all have large minds. He said consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds, adored by statesmen among others.

Under this definition, as their United Nations' record shows, there is nothing little about present-day statesmen. For some their only consistency is their inconsistency. A few examples prove it for them.

When the North Korean Communists invaded South Korea in 1950 the United States, Britain, France and practically everyone else, including India, voted for action against the invaders.

Russia, which got its signals mixed, was absent at the time but came back strong by announcing it would not try to get North Korea to call off the invasion because the Soviets were against butting into others' affairs.

But, when the United States blocked North Korea, Russia called this aggression, even though the United Nations had voted for action. And Egypt voted against helping South Korea. It said this was all just a West-East rumormongers.

India, which went along on condemning North Korea, which is far away from the land of Prime Minister Nehru, voted against condemning Red China, which is a next-door neighbor, when it attacked the U.N. forces.

Things got a little mixed up a few years later.

In 1956—when British-French-Israeli forces decided to invade Egypt—the land of the pharaohs, which wouldn't condemn the Red invasion of North Korea, went running to the United Nations for help against her own invaders.

In this case, for a change, the United States and Russia joined up against Britain and France. But in the Security Council Britain and France, which had condemned North Korea for invading South Korea, now vetoed a resolution against themselves for doing the same thing to Egypt.

India also had something to say in the General Assembly. Although refusing to be unpleasant to Red China for going into Korea, India joined the United States and Russia in calling on France and Britain to quit Egypt.

On this one the United States had a little trouble deciding what it ought to do. At first it considered not voting at all.

But, while all this was going on in 1956, and at the very same time, Russia, outraged at Britain and France for attacking Egypt, invaded Hungary and crushed the Hungarian revolt against the Communist bosses.

The Security Council—which included the United States, Britain, and France, besides Russia—was for condemning the Russian attack on Hungary. But the Russians vetoed that.

It was different in the General Assembly.

There the United States and a host of other countries—along with Britain and France, then under fire for what they had done to Egypt—teamed up overwhelmingly to condemn Russia on Hungary.

All Russia could do in this case, since there is no veto in the assembly, was vote no. But Egypt, which wanted U.N. action against Britain and France, wouldn't vote yes or no on Russia. It just abstained. So did Nehru's India.

Then the United States got its neck caught in a door when it backed the rebel invasion of Fidel Castro's Cuba. Russia demanded this country be condemned. The United Nations wouldn't go for that but Nehru criticized the United States by calling its action intervention.

Next in the history of inconsistency came Nehru himself when India this week attacked and overran Portuguese Goa.

Once more Britain and France teamed up in the Security Council to pass a resolution calling on India to get out of Goa. But Russia vetoed that.

And Egypt, which had hollered bloody murder when it was attacked, not only joined Russia in voting against a rebuke to India but demanded that Portugal give up Goa.

If all this makes you dizzy, just think how the statesmen must feel.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The world's statesmen, by Ralph Waldo Emerson's reasoning, all have large minds. He said consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds, adored by statesmen among others.

Under this definition, as their United Nations' record shows, there is nothing little about present-day statesmen. For some their only consistency is their inconsistency. A few examples prove it for them.

When the North Korean Communists invaded South Korea in 1950 the United States, Britain, France and practically everyone else, including India, voted for action against the invaders.

Russia, which got its signals mixed, was absent at the time but came back strong by announcing it would not try to get North Korea to call off the invasion because the Soviets were against butting into others' affairs.

But, when the United States blockaded North Korea, Russia called this aggression, even though the United Nations had voted for action. And Egypt voted against helping South Korea. It said this was all just a West-East rumble.

India, which went along on condemning North Korea, which is far away from the land of Prime Minister Nehru, voted against condemning Red China, which is a next-door neighbor, when it attacked the U.N. forces.

Things got a little mixed up a few years later.

In 1956 when British-French-Israeli forces decided to invade Egypt—the land of the pharaohs, which wouldn't condemn the Red invasion of North Korea, went running to the United Nations for help against her own invaders.

In this case, for a change, the United States and Russia joined up against Britain and France. But in the Security Council Britain and France, which had condemned North Korea for invading South Korea, now vetoed a resolution against themselves for doing the same thing to Egypt.

India also had something to say in the General Assembly. Although refusing to be unpleasant to Red China for going into Korea, India joined the United States and Russia in calling on France and Britain to quit Egypt.

On this one the United States had a little trouble deciding what it ought to do. At first it considered not voting at all.

But, while all this was going on in 1956, and at the very same time, Russia, outraged at Britain and France for attacking Egypt, invaded Hungary and crushed the Hungarian revolt against the

Ohio Wheat Crop Output Decreased

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio farmers seeded 1,255,000 acres of winter wheat for 1962 harvest, 84 per cent of the previous year's figure, for estimated production of 37,650,000 bushels, according to the Agriculture Department. The Buckeye State statistics contribute to national totals of 38,983,000 acres producing 944,133,000 bushels.

The 1962 wheat crop is being grown under a rigid production and marketing quota program requiring growers to reduce acreages at least 10 per cent from the previous year because of large surplus.

Communist bosses.

The Security Council—which included the United States, Britain, and France, besides Russia—was for condemning the Russian attack on Hungary. But the Russians vetoed that.

It was different in the General Assembly.

There the United States and a host of other countries—along with Britain and France, then under fire for what they had done to Egypt—teamed up overwhelmingly to condemn Russia on Hungary.

All Russia could do in this case, since there is no veto in the assembly, was vote no. But Egypt, which wanted U.N. action against Britain and France, wouldn't vote yes or no on Russia. It just abstained. So did Nehru's India.

Then the United States got its neck caught in a door when it backed the rebel invasion of Fidel Castro's Cuba. Russia demanded this country be condemned. The United Nations wouldn't go for that but Nehru criticized the United States by calling its action intervention.

Next in the history of inconsistency came Nehru himself when India this week attacked and overran Portuguese Goa.

Once more Britain and France teamed up in the Security Council to pass a resolution calling on India to get out of Goa. But Russia vetoed that.

And Egypt, which had hollered bloody murder when it was attacked, not only joined Russia in voting against a rebuke to India but demanded that Portugal give up Goa.

If all this makes you dizzy, just think how the statesmen must feel.

New Tidings Fly in Heaven as God Reaches Historic Moving Decision

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second of four articles on the Christmas story in its heavenly setting, based on Biblical representations of the World on High. Utterances of the Divinity are attributed to Him by Gospel writers and prophets; the words of heavenly beings are from the prophets who, in human terms, strove to mirror the views of the divine world.

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

A sense of quickening rapture swept the supersensible regions. New prospects were abroad. New tidings flew. Among the sanctified denizens of that immeasurable everywhere, there was a lively, warm and mounting awareness that the curtain was rising on a momentous and sublime drama.

"Hark, a rumor, behold it comes, a great commotion out of the North Country."

A winged herald carried the news, and it struck jubilation throughout the rainbow tiers of the heavens, for "North Country" was the figurative term denoting the throne of the Ancient of Days.

"God has taken His place in the divine council. In the assembly of the holy ones... He holds judgment."

It was a stirring and glad affair in the doings of the Lord, who works hitherto and forevermore, to bring endless gradations of refreshment and delight to those agreeable climes.

From the first to the seventh heaven, there was wonder and acclaim. "How great are thy works, O Lord. Thy thoughts are very deep." He who had conceived all for all never ceased to offer ever greater possibilities.

Trumpets sounded, and mellifluous chimes, so fine they reached only the noblest comprehension, wafted through the mansions of the true. Sceptered angels, in festal array, stood before the Very Sanctuary.

It was, and ever is, the well-spring, the essence of the universe, the innermost totality of determining knowledge, power and design that stretches from the highest intangible to the lowest form of matter.

It is the creative fundamen- tal, the height and the depth, the consummate sum of everything attained or attainable, the mountain of the living Godhead to whom the earth is attached like "a footstool."

"Sing praises to God, sing praises." Hymns filled those matchless chambers.

He "who sits above the circle of the earth" not only reigned in that prepotent inner circle, but to the outermost reaches of innumerable concentric circles down to the basest perishing clay.

Between the limited and the unlimited, life moved, all part of the whole — with varying degrees of vision and potentialities for ascent — or descent. Life was movement, the antithesis of inertia, and new currents rustled the supernal banners.

"God has spoken in His Sanctuary," the information came.

Around the tabernacle, the heavenly entities awaited the illuminating Word, with sure and grateful anticipation. From the illustrious parapets, the call went forth: "The Lord is coming out of His Place."

A deep hush fell among the holy ones. He was "clothed with honor and majesty." Immutably righteous and justice were His bearing, and steadfast love His way. His train filled the temple.

The books of life were opened. His devotees listened.

"Behold, the former things have come to pass, and new things I now declare: before they spring forth, I shall tell you of them."

Every circumstance, each interwoven with the now and the ever after, brought further unfolding of changeless truth, recognizable according to the perceptivity of different beings.

From the august council of the cherubim who dwell next to God, to the simplest planetary child, all received glimmerings from the "Father of Lights." But the more elevated received most.

"Hear, O heavens, and give ear, O earth... Sons have I reared and brought up, but they rebelled against me... Behold, I will do a new thing... I will lift up My hand to the nations, and raise My signal to the peoples... I will make away in the wilderness, and rivers in the desert."

A flood of sheer elation swirled through the heavenly camps. It was to be the earth, that stricken, spiritually stagnant and bewildered tribe of "people" that would be endowed with fuller realization of life.

"These people have I formed myself. Surely, they are My people... My word shall not return to Me empty, but it shall accomplish that which I purposed. Soon My salvation will come, and My deliverance be revealed."

Indeed, the need was extreme. Innocent worlds had looked with compassion on earthly darkness. Even when a single sinner repented, there was joy among the angels. But all humans fell abysmally short of Godly health.

The call went forth: "The Lord is coming out of His Place."

They had rejected it and were sick for want of it. In their insensitive state, immersed as they were in transient material objectives, it seemed impossible that they could ever reassume permanent lines of being.

Poor bedeviled creatures, taken in by that seducer, Satan, and his cunning shades, Man could see little more than the accoutrements of fast-withering flesh, financial holdings, titles, adornments, buildings, vehicles, high position.

And all this was certain for disintegration. How man, his inherent spirit nature paralyzed and trodden underfoot, could ever be reconstituted, God only knew. But what a triumph it would be.

"I have seen his ways, but I will heal him. I will lead him and requite him with comfort. Peace, peace to the far and to the near, and I will heal him."

"Bring My sons from afar and My daughters from the ends of the earth, every one that is called by My Name... I will lead the blind in a way that they know not. In paths that they have not known, I will guide them....

"I will not forsake them."
So proclaimed the Lord, the "I am who I am."

The news set off a celebration in the spirit worlds, for all creation was bound together by the law of love, the highest of all laws. So the promise of closer unity with earth warmed the heart of heaven.

Yet the means for accomplishing the project remained for many of various levels, a mystery. And it was subject of much pondering.

"When men fall, do they.... rise again?"
"Who can bring a clean thing of an unclean?"
Man, given a free rein, had made so many bad choices that the way back was overgrown with cross-purposes, compromises and conflicts. He stumbled on in senseless desperation with a haunted conscience. He was lost.

From the beginning, God had sought to realign him to his inward stature, rescuing him from bondage, leading him across seas, guiding him through deserts, showering him with manna, blazing his covenant on Sinai, counseling him through prophets and patriarchs, offering signs and symbols to awaken man's spiritual awareness.

"With an everlasting kindness he has drawn them...."
"He has fed them with the bread of tears."
"How often they rebelled."
"They walk in their own inventions."
Hemmed in by the illusion of their own mastery, estranged from their origins, men had made themselves and their earth the center of their lives, the endall, instead of recognizing that it was the mere foot of a ladder reaching upward.

New Nuclear Strategy On Curies Reported
WASHINGTON (AP) — A Defense Department spokesman has declined to comment on a published report that the Kennedy administration has switched to a strategy designed to spare Soviet cities in case of nuclear war.

But the Almighty intended to open them, in a new, more vivid way. "I will show the salvation of God." The forces assigned to take part in the plan were astonished at its daring.

"But will God indeed dwell on earth?"
So He ordained.

Nasal Stuffiness Not Sinus Trouble

Euthanasia
Q. Are doctors justified in prolonging life when there is absolutely no hope?
A. The problem of what to do—or what not to do—under "hopeless" circumstances is a very real one and very perplexing. Physicians are dedicated to the preservation of life. Who is to decide the "hopelessness" of their attempts at such preservation? Legalization of euthanasia (so-called "mercy" killing) places an almost unbearable responsibility on the doctor. We won't take sides and would certainly not be critical of those who have a different viewpoint, but there seems to be no room for compromise—death is to be fought until the very end.

Q. I must have sinus trouble because one or the other side of my nose is always stopped up. Would nose drops help?
A. Alternating stuffiness or obstruction of the two sides of the nose could hardly be considered "sinus trouble." In fact, alternating nasal obstruction is normal. The scroll-shaped masses of nasal tissue (turbinate) on one side are commonly more congested than the turbinate of the other and this allows a greater amount of air to go through the more open side. From time to time, perhaps every 15 minutes to two or three hours, the turbinate on the congested side become smaller and the nasal passage opens up, while at the same time the turbinate on the other side become congested and more or less close up the passage-way. Nose drops are only rarely helpful and may even perpetuate nasal obstruction. It is certainly not wise to habitually use nose drops.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

Take No Chances

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that I am being married in May and I am afraid if I have a big wedding my mother will spoil it. She is absolutely off her rocker. I am not exaggerating. She could start singing "Glory Hallelujah" right in the middle of the ceremony. She is not bad enough to be locked up. I mean she's not dangerous or anything, but you never know what she is going to do next. Do you think we should let her come to the wedding and take our changes, or should we arrange to have her "entertained" by someone while the wedding takes place, and then go to her for her blessing immediately following the ceremony?

GETTING MARRIED
DEAR GETTING: If your mother is not in an institution, but has her "moments" forgive the big wedding and give her the pleasure of being present at a small, intimate ceremony. If she bursts into song, your family will "understand."

DEAR ABBY: I am single and am living in a place where single girls are not very available. There is a dance coming up shortly (mainly for the married couples living here) and I asked one of the fellows I work with if I could take his wife. The dance falls on my night off and he will have to work that night.

His wife is willing to go. I like to dance and all I have in mind is an enjoyable sociable evening.
DEAR SOCIABLE: A man does not "borrow" another man's wife as he might a lawnmower. Until you get your own girl, go solo or stay home.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's parents come to visit us once a year for three weeks. His mother is a regular old fuss-budget who complains constantly that smoke bothers her, so consequently, I can't smoke in the same room with her, and certainly not in the same car. We live in the suburb and must drive an hour to get to the city. I don't enjoy going for hours without a cigarette, so I told my husband in a nice way to entertain his folks and leave me home with the children. He wouldn't hear of it. How can I solve a problem that is becoming more irritating every year? I want to be a good wife and daughter-in-law.

Dear Abby...

By Abigail VanBuren

Take No Chances

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that I am being married in May and I am afraid if I have a big wedding my mother will spoil it. She is absolutely off her rocker. I am not exaggerating. She could start singing "Glory Hallelujah" right in the middle of the ceremony. She is not bad enough to be locked up. I mean she's not dangerous or anything, but you never know what she is going to do next. Do you think we should let her come to the wedding and take our changes, or should we arrange to have her "entertained" by someone while the wedding takes place, and then go to her for her blessing immediately following the ceremony?

GETTING MARRIED
DEAR GETTING: If your mother is not in an institution, but has her "moments" forgoe the big wedding and give her the pleasure of being present at a small, intimate ceremony. If she bursts into song, your family will "understand."

DEAR ABBY: I am single and am living in a place where single girls are not very available. There is a dance coming up shortly (mainly for the married couples living here) and I asked one of the fellows I work with if I could take his wife. The dance falls on my night off and he will have to work that night.

His wife is willing to go. I like to dance and all I have in mind is an enjoyable sociable evening.

DEAR SOCIABLE: A man does not "borrow" another man's wife as he might a lawnmower. Until you get your own girl, go solo or stay home.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's parents come to visit us once a year for three weeks. His mother is a regular old fuss-budget who complains constantly that smoke bothers her, so consequently, I can't smoke in the same room with her, and certainly not in the same car. We live in the suburb and must drive an hour to get to the city. I don't enjoy going for hours without a cigarette, so I told my husband in a nice way to entertain his folks and leave me home with the children. He wouldn't hear of it. How can I solve a problem that is becoming more irritating every year? I want to be a good wife and daughter-in-law.

Men's Tourney May Expand To Full League

What started as an idea for a holiday basketball tournament may blossom into a full-scale winter men's cage league — if sponsoring Circleville Booster Club officials obtain definite playing commitments from enough area teams.

A meeting at 6 p. m. Saturday in the National Guard Armory on E. Franklin St. will determine the fate of the fledgling circuit. Sgt. Chet Iery of the Guard, chairman of the Booster committee organizing the program, will confer with interested team managers and referees.

The sponsors seek definite answers on entry into the local competition from squads representing Laurelville, Derby, Ashville, Hunsicker's Elevator, Kingston, Orient, Walnut Creek and the city's South End as well as several possible outfits from General Electric and any other interested cage unit.

Teams already signed up for the program represent Williamsport, the VFW, Scioto Elks, Deercreek, Jackson Twp., the Jaycees, Stoutsville and the Guard. As either a regular league or extended tournament, the Booster basketball program will get underway Tuesday night on the Army hardcourt.

Any qualified referees interested in officiating for the Booster program are asked to meet with the managers and sponsors Saturday night.

Unioto Hands Deers Third Defeat, 88-74

A 29-point third quarter put Unioto's powerful cage team beyond Williamsport's grasp last night as the visitors went on to nail down an 88-74 victory and send the Deers down to their third defeat in 11 matches.

Williamsport held a 36-31 half-time advantage over coach Larry Silvani's Ross County hoopers, but Unioto was in no mood to be trifled with. Dick Neff and Neil Dailey provided most of the deciding punch, racking up 14 counters apiece in the last half to record Unioto's eighth win against two losses.

The Williamsport loss came despite double-figure scoring efforts by five Deers' players, including Don Steinhauer and Rick Pond, with 18 points each. Brooks McCoy hit 14 and Marty Noble and Richard Gerhardt bucketed 10 markers apiece.

Towering Dave Shoultz, a 6'4" package of scoring potential, turned on the heat for 23 markers to

Adkins Braeburn Farm Well Known For Thoroughbreds

By COL. J. E. GROOM

Located in Pickaway township a few miles from Circleville is the Braeburn Stock Farm owned by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Adkins. It has become prominent as a thoroughbred establishment, having been well known as a saddle horse nursery for many years.

Probably the Adkins' best known saddle horses to perform in the show ring were Marialana and Alluring Loveliness. These two were shown in many states in the middle west as well as California. The Adkins home has a trophy room resplendent with the many "blues" they have won throughout their careers.

Since their entry into the racing of thoroughbreds they have been equally successful, with their racing stable in the capable hands of trainer W. B. Alexander. Racing mainly at the Ohio tracks plus Keeneland and Latonia in Kentucky the Adkins like to keep the horses nearby where they can see them run.

The most consistent winner during the past year was the good horse Bantele, a four-year-old that had three wins and 5 seconds in 8 starts. He is by Hydrant and she by Bull Dog, no doubt the most famous stud ever to stand in Kentucky.

THEIR five-year-old mare Buleta by Lees Boy and he by Bull Lee was the winner of four races during the season and was a strong contender in every start.

The three-year-old Bo Menow started three times and was second twice and fourth once. In one of these races at North Randall he was photoed out in record time in a good stake race.

The Adkins have received more genuine pleasure from their seven-year-old Battle Menow than any of the others. This individual started seven times, winning three of them. He is out of the good mare

Mt. Logan Drops Juniors, Frosh

Chillicothe Mt. Logan handed Circleville a double defeat on the basketball floor yesterday, turning back the Red and Black junior high cagers 28-27 while the CHS freshmen took it on the chin, 56-17.

In the junior high tilt, the final three seconds spelled doom as the Tiny Tigers absorbed their first loss after three wins. Howard Dade, the games' leading scorer with 18 points, stole the ball and dropped in a layup shot with 20 seconds remaining to push the locals in front, 27-26.

After the basket, though, a charging foul was called. Malone stepped to the charity line for Mt. Logan and tossed in a pair of free throws to wrap up the decision by one marker.

The freshmen could manage just four points the entire first half. John Thomas led Circleville scoring with eight counters. Eleven players scored for Mt. Logan.

CONFUSION — While Unioto players Ron Ackley (41) and Harvey Bowling (33) watch, a pair of Williamsport cagers play touch-me-not with the basketball. Don Steinhauser (25) leaps in right foreground while Richard Gerhardt (43) executes a perfect baseball slide in attempting to gain control of the spheroid. Unioto won, 88-74.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, F. Marion Hoover, who passed away 10 years ago December 11, 1951.

The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair, recalls the love,
The voice, the smile, of the one who once sat there.

Sadly missed by his family

Rickey, 85, Still Eyes Third League

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Branch Rickey, the elder statesman or organized baseball, celebrated his 80th birthday today still visualizing the creation of a third major league.

The father of baseball's farm system predicted that the National and American Leagues would expand to 12 teams each in the near future and then to a third league.

"The 12-team league will last a year or two, then they'll have a hassle and go to a third league with eight teams each," Rickey said.

"Are the present clubs happy?" the former president of the defunct Continental League added. "If they answer at all they'll tell you 'no,' especially the two newer clubs in each league. It's too expensive of a proposition."

Rickey, 85, Still Eyes Third League

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Branch Rickey, the elder statesman or organized baseball, celebrated his 80th birthday today still visualizing the creation of a third major league.

The father of baseball's farm system predicted that the National and American Leagues would expand to 12 teams each in the near future and then to a third league.

"The 12-team league will last a year or two, then they'll have a hassle and go to a third league with eight teams each," Rickey said.

"Are the present clubs happy?" the former president of the defunct Continental League added. "If they answer at all they'll tell you 'no,' especially the two newer clubs in each league. It's too expensive of a proposition."

Some Films Still Indicate Happiness Not Out of Style

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—There is joy on the movie screens this Christmas season, proving that film makers have not lost their touch in making entertainment.

Sometimes you wonder. Producers have been so enamored with the downbeat and the depraved this year that you fear they have forgotten their ability to entertain.

But at the close of the year, the film companies managed to bring out some films that prove happiness hasn't gone out of style. Five of the new offerings—two musicals, two comedies and an adventure drama—seem to have those showmenly qualities to make the box office cash registers play "Jingle Bells."

1. "El Cid" is much better than a reviewer has a right to expect. It is a romantic adventure in the best sense of the term. The characters, especially Charlton Heston's Cid, are truly heroic, and that's not easy to pull off nowadays.

"El Cid" is the most beautifully photographed movie in years—perhaps of all time. Almost every scene is stunning.

2. "A Majority of One" is a modern fable about the romance of a Jewish widow and a Japanese tycoon. It never quite rises above the level of a fable, but it is played with such warm-heartedness that you want to believe it.

The casting of Rosalind Russell in the role originated by Gertrude Berg was roundly criticized, but by gum, if she doesn't pull it off! Alec Guinness is effective though not as convincing in his impersonation.

The nice thing about "A Majority of One" is the pleasant glow it leaves you with afterward. That feeling is hard to find in films nowadays.

3. "Babes in Toyland" is something for the kiddies. Old master Walt Disney has a sure touch for entertaining the small fry while not antagonizing the parents.

Scenically, the film is rich in imagination. A grown-up might wish that the comedy would be on less primary level and music less dated. Best of the performers is Ray Bolger as a sneaky, sniveling, deep-dyed villain.

4. "Flower Drum Song" is a gay, glib, garish musical about life in San Francisco's Chinatown. It is a happy musical, not to be taken seriously, just enjoyed. The music is not first-rate Rodgers and Hammerstein, but even a secondary R&H score is better than most. The players are a pleasure to watch especially the well-formed Nancy Kwan.

5. "Lover Come Back" reunites two of the most attractive people in the world, Doris Day and Rock Hudson. As in "Pillow Talk," the comedy revolves around sex, and it (the comedy) is greatly aided by the presence of Tony Randall.

Steel Companies Falling Behind In Filling Orders

NEW YORK (AP)—Some steel companies are falling behind in the effort to keep up with a surge of new orders, the Iron Age said today.

Many metalworking weekly said many steel products are on virtual allocation through the January-March quarter.

"Tightest products are galvanized and cold-rolled sheet, but distribution of all flat-rolled products is under tight control," it said.

On the other hand, some mills report orders on the books are not drastically advanced, the magazine said.

"But this can be misleading. Big customers are placing their orders at a normal lead time. But, they have blocked out longer programs, sometimes as far out as six months," it said.

The industry, picking up steam right along, last week hit a production pace of 2.2 million ingots, about 77 per cent of capacity. It was the biggest output for any week since April 1960.

NEW YORK (AP)—The Hollywood studios, turning out television series by the yard, have earned—often with justice—the nickname of sausage factories. During the current season, however, Dick Powell has been giving a weekly demonstration that it is not necessary to sacrifice quality in favor of quantity.

His anthology series on NBC has been consistently good and sometimes superb, with absorbing plots, imaginative production and good acting.

Tuesday night's program, while not the best of the series by a long shot, was a workmanlike mystery about the murder of a faith healer.

It's a substantial series that deserves more attention.

The new year will bring some confusing changes in the network schedules. The biggest shift will involve CBS' dropping of "The Investigators," leaving an hour on Thursday night to be filled. "The Gertrude Berg Show" will be moved into half of the hour and the new "Tell It to Groucho" program will take the other 30 minutes.

Into Wednesday night's lineup moves "The Dick Van Dyke Show," and a night-time version of "Password" will start Jan. 2 on Tuesday nights.

Big impending change at NBC is the dropping, after all these years, of the afternoon serial, "Young Doctor Malone." Viewer complaints are still piling into the network. Replacement is an audience participation show, "Your First Impression," starting Jan. 2. Host on the show will be Monte Hall, who does the same chore on rival CBS' "Video Village."

ABC will replace "The Roaring 20s" on Dec. 27 with "Calvin and the Colonel," a cartoon series, and a new situation comedy, "Room for One More." Repeats of the Winston Churchill series probably will take up half the time left when Steve Allen's show departs after next week, but no show has been found yet for the first half hour.

Recommended tonight: "Wagon Train," NBC, 7:30-8:30 (EST)—Bette Davis is the guest star; "The Coming of Christ," NBC, 8:30-9—repeat of a moving project 20 treatment of the Christmas story; Perry Como Show, NBC, 9-10—annual Christmas show.

Medical Aides May Soon Be in Form of Robots

U.S. Health Team Says Current Tests Showing Promise

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Visions of using robot computers to help doctors diagnose diseases; a theory that chemicals suspect as cancer-causes may hitchhike rides on viruses; and a new and healthier paint for submarines are among latest examples of science at work. Robot Medics

New research suggests that eventually electronic computers may help doctors diagnose heart disease and certain other ailments.

The robot medical aides might also be employed in "mass screening" of large population groups to help detect unsuspected ailments.

That's the word from a team of U.S. Public Health Service, Cornell, and industry researchers. They report preliminary but promising results in using a computer to help tell whether a given person has a normal or diseased heart.

It does so, they say, by digesting punched card data corresponding to electrical and other signals given out by the heart—and automatically comparing it with similar data stored in the machine's memory department. Hitchhikers

Certain chemicals present in man's environment have long been strongly suspect as among causes of cancer—even though they are present only in trace amounts, says a group of Seton Hall Medical College researchers.

How then, could they possibly cause cancer? It might be, say the scientists, that common viruses—such as those that sometimes cause polio, colds and other ailments—might serve as carriers of such chemicals. They might take them right into susceptible body cells which viruses themselves can invade. Submarine Paint

As any sailor can tell you, the Navy is always painting something—to protect ship hulls and machinery from corrosion. In submarines—especially in long-submerged nuclear subs—there's another reason for frequent painting and repainting: to prevent sailors from getting psychological problems that might arise from a monotonous environment.

With oil-based paints formerly used, the Navy found that such frequent changes of interior scenery led to a build-up of potentially unhealthy compounds released from the paints long after they had dried.

Now, the Naval Research Laboratory has come up with a new, semi-gloss "acrylic-latex" paint—with a rubbery base—which scientists say solves the problem.

Convicted Slayer Loses Court Appeal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The convicted slayer of a woman taxi driver lost his appeal to the Ohio Supreme Court today.

The court set Jan. 19 as the new death date for Lawson E. Schaber, 24, for the robbery-murder of Velma Byers in February 1960, on Toledo's East Side.

Schaber was convicted by a three-judge court for first-degree murder in the fatal shooting. He originally was sentenced to die in Ohio Penitentiary's electric chair last April 20 but the execution was stayed pending outcome of appeals.

Counsel for Schaber claimed he was sent to Lima State Hospital without a hearing for sanity examination before the trial in violation of his rights.

Some of the special decorations you will want to see are the creche's at the Lutheran and E.U.B. Ski Trip Sounds Good, but Ends In Double Trouble

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Tripp III of suburban Chagrin Falls won't be planning any more skiing trips for awhile.

The couple hadn't skied since they were youngsters, but last week they got a friend to stay with their three children and took off for several days of the sport in Canada.

All was fine until Friday, when Mrs. Tripp suffered a broken right leg in a spill on a slope at St. Jovite, 80 miles north of Montreal, when the safety release on one of her skis failed to work.

Tripp took her to the St. Paul Hospital in St. Jovite and returned to the slope, but a few hours later he was a patient in the same hospital. The safety release on one of his skis also failed during a spill and he, too, suffered a broken right leg.

The couple returned here by plane Tuesday night and Trans-Canada Airlines had two wheelchairs waiting at Cleveland Hopkins Airport for them.

"Isn't this ridiculous!" said Mrs. Tripp when she was being carried off the plane as her husband hobbled along behind her on crutches.

Tripp is vice president of the Etna Products Co., which manufactures metal-working compounds and lubricants.

Governor To Study Extradition Plea

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. Michael V. DiSalle has taken under study a plea not to extradite Mrs. William May Mallory, 34, to Monroe, N.C., to face kidnapping charges.

Mrs. Mallory, a Negro, is wanted on charges of kidnapping a white couple in Monroe during racial disorders last August. She was arrested in Cleveland Oct. 12 on a fugitive warrant and is free on $7,500 bail.

Her case was presented to David K. Purkey, DiSalle's clemency aide, Tuesday by Bernard

Nixon Challenged To Offer Alternative on Congo Issue

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Democratic senators challenged Richard M. Nixon today to offer an alternative to President Kennedy's "hard choice" of backing U.N. action in Katanga.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Senate

Democratic leader, said he accepts as "responsible opposition" criticisms made by Nixon, the 1960 GOP presidential nominee, of administration policies in the Congo.

"But what does Mr. Nixon offer as an alternative?" Humphrey asked. "If Katanga secedes from the Congo, it is the beginning of the end. The rest of that unhappy country will become then a beachhead for communism. President Kennedy has made the hard choice—either the U.N. or the communists will prevail in the Congo."

Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama used similar words in a separate interview to describe the President's policies. He said it was all very well for Nixon to characterize as "an incredible mess" the administration's decision to back U.N. efforts to force unification of the Congo.

"But what would Mr. Nixon have done?" Sparkman asked.

Nixon said in a copyright article in the Los Angeles Times-Mirror that the United States had been put in the position of allying itself with the Soviet Union and against most of its North Atlantic Organization allies in the Congo. He said the central Congo government was "infiltrated by Communists and Communist sympathizers."

Replying to this, Humphrey said that Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula can be regarded as just as anti-Communist as Katangan President Moise Tshombe. He said if Tshombe and Adoula can reach an agreement he is confident they can repress Communist influence in any resulting government.

Jackson Christmas Festival Tomorrow

The annual Jackson Twp. High School Christmas program, a colorful public festival of inspiring holiday music and drama, has been scheduled for 7:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Jackson auditorium.

Highlighting the program will be a candlelight service presented by the high school mixed chorus. The story, based upon the birth of Christ, will be narrated by Larry Duddleson.

A concert by the school band featuring an interpretation of Paul Yoder's "The Toy Shop" will open the evening, followed by "Season's Greetings", "White Christmas", "Winter Wonderland" and "Jingle Bells", all sung by the junior high school chorus. Linda Minor, Becky Stevenson and Sue Pontious, all freshmen, are to sing, "Let It Snow".

The operetta "Santa and the Space Men" is to be staged by students of the elementary school. Sally Hines is accompanist for the entire program with Mrs. Ross Hamilton serving as general director.

Medical Aides May Soon Be in Form of Robots

U.S. Health Team Says Current Tests Showing Promise

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Visions of using robot computers to help doctors diagnose diseases; a theory that chemicals suspect as cancer-causes may hitchhike rides on viruses; and a new and healthier paint for submarines are among latest examples of science at work. Robot Medics

New research suggests that eventually electronic computers may help doctors diagnose heart disease and certain other ailments.
